Truman Now Thinks Strike Against U.S.

By PHILLIPS J. PECK

WASHINGTON, May 9 (INS)—President Truman declared today the coal strike was gradually approaching the stage of a strike against the government and said the Administration was seeking a way to end the walkout without the acquiescence of John L. Lewis.

The President, who earlier called the paralyzing strike a national disaster, was asked at his news conference whether he would order federal seizure of the idle pits when the "strike against the government" stage arrives.

He replied he would cross that bridge when he gets to it.

Mr. Truman revealed he is considering calling Lewis and the soft coal operators to the White House.

The President declined, however, to discuss the strike in detail or outline just what government planning is going on in connection with the walkout of 400,000 soft coal miners.

Asked whether he approved Lewis' demand for a royalty to finance a union health and welfare fund, he replied he had not gone into the issue, but he thought the Wagner Labor Relations Act provides against royalties.

While the President was hesitating to divulge the government's move to end the strike, the Civilian Production Administration urged electric power utilities in coal burning areas east of the Mississippi and in Iowa, Missouri and Minnesota to ration electricity in progressive stages, starting with a brownout and thence a blackout of all but essential services.

Another order readied by CPA for issuance would authorize the rationing of manufactured gas—a possible blow to the householder who cooks with that fuel.

But more immediately, the government's ban on non-essential railroad freight shipments and 25 per cent slash in rail passenger service goes into effect at midnight tonight.

To supplement this order, the Office of Defense Transportation urgently appealed to motor carriers to give priority to the movement of food, fuel and other essentials.

Mr. Truman's statements on the strike came as the union and the mine owners resumed negotiations under the guidance of two federal mediators.

Despite Congressional demands for drastic government action, the President emphatically declared he opposed a move by Sen. Eastland (D.) of Mississippi, to lay aside the British loan today to permit the Senate to take up anti-strike legislation.

The President said the loan matter was just as important as the labor bill.

A reporter told the President

GM, Chrysler To Close Plants Next Week

DETROIT, May 9 (AP)—General Motors and Chrysler Corp. announced today the impending suspension of production in their assembly plants as a result of the rail embargo.

GM reported plants would be closed within 10 days and Chrysler said all passenger car assembly lines would be down next week.

Chrysler said its truck assembly lines and other operations would continue. It attributed impending suspension to "shortage of parts aggravated by the coal strike and the rail embargo."

GM and Chrysler announcements followed closely the decision of Ford Motor Co., other member of the "Big Three" to halt all output. Ford began its shutdown last night; General Motors said its assembly lines would begin to close Monday, on a progressive basis.

Affected by the suspensions are 215,000 General Motors employes; 110,000 Ford employes and immediately 10,000 car assembly workers at Chrysler plants. Car and truck output, which reached a postwar high of 67,585 units last week is expected to drop around 50,000 next week.

Few other car manufacturers are in any better shape and additional closings are likely.

N. Y. Subway Service To Be Curtailed May 15

NEW YORK, May 8 (INS)—The board of transportation announced today New York's subway service would be curtailed, effective May 15, because of the coal strike.

The board said rush hour service would be cut 10 per cent and service during other hours as much as 35 per cent.

2600 Iron Ore Workers Will Be Laid Off

DULUTH, Minn., May 8 (AP)—A total of 2600 iron ore miners in the employ of the Oliver Iron Mining Co., subsidiary of the United States Steel Corp., will be laid off this week-end as result of the coal strike, it was announced today.

All mining and shipping of iron ore from the open pits will be stopped by nightfall.

Gas Supply For 2 Wks. In Hub Area

New England utilities have only enough fuel to supply illuminating gas to Greater Boston for two weeks and the potential supply of power and electric light is not much greater, it was revealed today. This gloomy picture was painted by Thomas A. Flaherty, chairman of the State Public Utilities Commission, during an emergency State House conference called to decide the extent of a blackout threatened by the 39-day coal strike.

Faced with curtailments unmatched even in wartime years, householders were urged to economize to the utmost as the only way to keep essential services in operation.

Flaherty called in all State Department heads and officials of public utilities for a speedy survey after which he declared the domestic supply of gas may have to be terminated if the public does not voluntarily co-operate.

"The gas supply problem is so serious we must warn all householders in the state to curtail use of fuel gas except for the most essential needs," he declared.

"If utilities have to shut down in domestic gas a real problem is faced in getting into operation again. In the case of shut-off of electric power, due to this shortage of coal, the power can be turned on again immediately when more coal gets here. But if a gas shut-off comes, it will take 30 to 60 days before they can resume production and get service to customers.

This was the State's biggest danger as the fuel shortage brought a jump in the shutdowns at manufacturing plants and as officials sought to tabulate remaining coal piles and redistribute

Murray Lashes Out at Lewis

ATLANTIC CITY, May 9 (AP)—CIO President Murray today verbally attacked John L. Lewis, whose 400,000 members now are in the 39th day of a strike.

"We're no slackers in CIO," Murray said in an address before the Amalgamated Clothing Workers convention and added:

"No one in the CIO has turned against his government and fought its people, because the CIO understands its obligations and responsibilities."

EMERGENCY MEETING—Members of the State Public Utilities Commission meet in an emergency session at the State House today to discuss Boston's impending blackout. They are (l. to r.) John M. Whouley, Francis M. McKeown, Chairman Thomas A. Flaherty, Hirsh Freed and Carroll L. Meins.

Seize Mines? Sure! But--

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Here are answers to questions—which may have puzzled you—about the critical coal strike. Can the government seize the coal mines? If so, why doesn't it? The President, under his wartime powers which he still has, can seize the mines.

The government several times seized struck mine during the war.

But the President has no power to compel the miners to return to work. If he seized the mines but the miners stayed away, he'd have a red face and no coal.

On occasion miners stayed away in wartime when the government took over struck mines.

Union leaders argue that their men are not striking, that they're staying away from the mines because their contract has expired and they can't work without one.

Can't the government jail miners who refuse to work when the government seizes the mines?

No. There's no law compelling a man to work. But the government could jail anyone who urges the miners not to work or threatens them if they do.

The charge would be conspiracy to interfere with the government's operations of the mines. This is always hard to prove.

If the government seized the mines and the union leaders just sat back, keeping mum, they couldn't be accused of telling the men not to work. Yet, without orders from the union, the men very probably would stay away.

Weren't a number of miners arrested in wartime on conspiracy charge? Yes. The Department of Justice charged 162. Of that number 148 were convicted. But of the 143 only one got a jail sentence, a one-year term. The others were fined less than $100 each.

The government said these men were trying to keep the miners from work by pleas or threats. The arrests didn't scare the miners into going to work.

Embargo on Parcel Post Packages Over 11 Pounds

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—The Post Office Department today ordered an embargo on parcel post shipments weighing more than 11 pounds, with certain exceptions.

The department said the embargo, effective at midnight, was ordered as a result of the coal strike and curtailment of rail service.

Four classes of goods are exempt: live day-old poultry, seeds, plants and other nursery stock; eggs, butter and other perishable food products; and medicines, drugs surgical instruments and surgical dressings.

The department said normal weight limitation on parcel post is 70 pounds. The size limitation is 100 inches, combined length and girth.

Parcels covered by the embargo will not be accepted for mailing if they weigh more than 11 pounds or if their combined length and girth exceeds 60 inches.

Postmaster General Hannegan said he acted at the request of the Office of Defense Transportation and the Association of American Railroads.

N. E. Council Wires Truman Reason for Strike Deadlock

Frederick S. Blackall, Jr., president of the New England Council, telegraphed President Truman today asking the Chief Executive, or the Secretary of Labor, to make public the reasons why disputants in the coal strike can not agree.

Blackall's telegram:

"May I most earnestly suggest you or the Secretary of Labor publish to the American people a statement of the questions at issue in the coal strike and the position of the operators and the miners wih respect to each.

"It is my understanding that for more than a month representatives of the Secretary of Labor have been in frequent conferences with both sides presumably in behalf of the public interest which is now being so cruelly and recklessly sacrificed to the verge of a national disaster.

"Yet so far as I know, the American people, have been given no authoritative statement of the facts by the government, nor any basis for understanding why it can be possible for its government to tolerate a rapidly advancing paralysis of our entire economy without any visible effort to eliminate the cause thereof, nor any non-partisan explanation as to why the disputants cannot agree to a resumption of coal production."

Timilty to Manage Suffolk Race Track

Joseph F. Timilty, former Boston police commissioner, will be the new president and general manager of the Suffolk Downs race track, it was learned today. Timilty was offered the job as operating head following purchase of the track by Judge John C., and Thomas A. Pappas and J. Arthur Warner. The Pappas group contacted Timilty shortly after the auction at the Copley Plaza last week when they bought the track for $3,600,000. The new owners told Timilty that the job was his if he wanted it and advised him to let them know when he had made up his mind. After consideration, the Boston American learned, Timilty decided to accept the post and will notify the Pappas brothers later today. A formal announcement of the appointment is expected shortly.

As general manager at Suffolk Downs, Timilty will be working for men who outbid him for purchase of the track. Representing a group of horse owners and track figures at the auction, Timilty went to $3,510,000 in the bidding.

But the successful bidders reputedly had the financial support of William Helis of New Orleans, fabulously wealthy Greek-American, and their $3,600,000 offer won them the track.

Shrewd businessmen, the new owners realized that purchase of Suffolk Downs was only the beginning of a tremendous undertaking and that they needed an operating boss with an all-Boston background to guide the track's destiny and to get things in shape for its first meeting under new management.

Time was short. Racing opens at Suffolk May 27, and men with the qualifications were few and far between.

They wanted a man who had established himself in public life, who "knew his way around" and would combine popularity and valuable Boston contacts with business ability and the knack of getting things done.

The Pappas group didn't have to look beyond the confines of the auction room for the man who possessed everything they needed—their bidding competitor.

The track purchasers lost no time in making their offer to Timilty, one of the most popular and successful business and political figures in Boston. His decision today clinched the deal.

Heroism Costly

CHICAGO, May 9 (AP)—Frank Brown's heroism in rescuing three small boys from Lake Michigan apparently cost him $400.

Brown, who saw the boys clinging to an overturned homemade boat as he passed the scene in his 30-foot cabin cruiser, took them to the Coast Guard station. He said he had lost his purse containing $400 during the rescue.

Youth Given Year for Theft, Accosting Girls

Four girls today identified a youth in municipal court as the one who had accosted them on downtown streets after dark during the past three weeks. The defendant, Ralph E. Nickerson, 20, of Spring st., Reading, was sentenced to a year in jail for accosting and theft of a handbag, following the girls' testimony, but Judge Elijah Adlow ordered the sentence delayed until tomorrow so that Nickerson may be given mental tests.

Police said amateur detective work by one of the girl witnesses, Mary C. Angelone of I st., South Boston, led to Nickerson's arrest Tuesday night. He was charged with stealing her handbag.

Helen Herring

Following the theft, police said, she pointed the suspect out near the place in Congress st. where she was accosted.

Other witnesses were Virginia Hodges of Crandall st., Roslindale; Catherine Murphy of Broadway, Chelsea, and Ellen Herring of Bellevue rd., East Braintree.

All said they had been annoyed by Nickerson on different nights and Miss Herring said the youth tried to force his way into her car.

A in Economics If Smith Girls Get by SEC

NEW YORK, May 9 (INS—Some time tomorrow the girls at Smith College are going to get another lesson in economics direct from the feed box—the Securities and Exchange Commission.

For the SEC in Philadelphia will then hear the case of the 18 girls in the economics class at Smith College who organized what was to be a $5000 investment company in the hope of picking up practical knowledge and education in finance.

But the SEC immediately turned on the red light, issued a temporary stop order against their venture and invited the girls down to Philadelphia to talk it over.

The SEC says under the investment companies act an investment company must have a capital of at least $50,000. The girls had thought only of having a capital of $5000, subscribed by themselves, their parents and friends. Now they'll have to give up the whole thing or win special exemption from the SEC.

The girls incorporated their company under Massachusetts law and proposed to offer 5000 shares of stock at $1 each. There were to be two classes of stock—non-voting for their parents and friends and voting common shares which the class members would hold.

Looks Like a 'Vicious Circle'

MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 9 (AP)—The opening scene last night of Somerset Maughan's play, "The Circle" was a washout.

The onstage automatic sprinkler system in the Jersey theater was set off as the curtain rose. The eight members of the cast were drenched. The ceiling of the set fell to the stage, a $500 gown belonging to Florence Reed, recent star of Shakespeare's "A Winter's Tale," was ruined when water flooded the dressing rooms, and the audience of 1200 walked orderly from the theater.

After a 40-minute wait while police and firemen cleared the debris the audience returned and the play went on as scheduled.

Jack Wasserman, producer, said the curtain caught on a valve of the sprinkler system.

Order 10 P. C. Cut In Oils and Fats

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—A further cut in food supplies at home was announced today by the Agriculture Department as the government posted higher prices for grain to get more bread for famine areas abroad.

The Department said civilian supplies of fats and vegetable oils—such as lard and margarine—will be cut 10 per cent during the April-June quarter from the amount available the first three months of the year.

6-Ton Butter Pile Fades In Big Sale

PHILADELPHIA, May 9 (AP)—It looked like a circus in downtown Philadelphia today as 8000 to 9000 men and women stormed the Reading terminal market to buy butter.

The New Jersey Federated Egg Producers Co-Operative put 12,000 pounds up for sale at the ceiling price of 55 cents a pound—one pound to a customer. Another 8000 pounds were promised later in the day.

"We're out to break the black market," declared Irwin Kramer, the Co-operative's sales manager.

Butter-hungry Philadelphians started gathering at 6 a. m., three hours before sales got under way. Twenty policemen went on duty an hour later as the crowd swelled to 2000.

The force had to be doubled as the line of eager purchasers, three and four abreast, stretched four blocks through central city streets. There was laughing and joking as the thousands waited.

"This is the biggest crowd in the 52 years that the market has been here," said Supt. Victor Marsh.

Second in line was 82-year-old Harriet J. Taylor who said she hadn't had any butter in seven months. Ahead of her stood 50-year-old Mrs. Ludie Minnick, who showed up at 5:45 a. m.

In addition to the six tons of butter on hand, there were 300 cases of eggs.

"This will break the black market in butter," declared Kramer, "just as we broke the black market in eggs at the same stall last summer."

Vandenberg Set To Warn of Red Danger to U. S.

By KINGSBURY SMITH

PARIS, May 9 (INS)—Highly authoritative American delegation sources today consider the Big Four conference of foreign ministers has proved a complete failure and it now is being wound up as quickly as possible.

The conference has failed, in the opinion of the American delegation, primarily because Russia wants freedom of action in European affairs rather than collective security.

America's historic offer to guarantee the security of Europe through the 25-year treaty proposed by Sec. Byrnes is considered by the United States delegation to have been virtually rejected because Europe still wants to play power politics.

Even if Russia agrees to Byrnes' latest proposal for a 21-nation peace conference June 15, that meeting will, it is believed, also prove a failure unless there is a drastic Soviet foreign policy change.

The American delegation is becoming reconciled to division of the universe into two worlds, one dominated by Russia and the other clinging to the western conception of democracy under U. S. leadership.

One of the highest-ranking members of the American delegation told International News Service he did not see how the peace of the world could long be maintained under this division.

In fact, the American delegation generally fears a drift has started toward a third World War and only by rousing the moral conscience of the world can this drift be halted.

Sen. Vandenberg, GOP member of the delegation, has had to hold his tongue in Paris. But he intends to tell the American people the tracks should be cleared at home because there are likely to be turbulent times ahead.

He doesn't believe Russia wants war. But he thinks the Kremlin is counting on the conviction the United States wants war a thousand times less and is too civilized to use the atomic bomb.

Therefore Vandenberg believes Russia is determined to expand as much as possible by all measures short of war. He considers this a dynamite-filled policy.

Vandenberg was particularly surprised by France's cool reception to the American plan for keeping Germany disarmed.

House Puts Off FEPC Passage

Passage of a bill to set up a Fair Employment Practices Commission was delayed today when the House voted to postpone action until next Tuesday.

Rep. Charles Gibbons of Stoneham, advocating a substitute bill, urged the delay to provide time for printing his proposal, although the substitute measure has previously been decisively defeated in the House.

Minority Leader John E. Flaherty criticized delay in the FEPC bill, which would ban discrimination in employment because of race, creed, color, national origin or ancestry in any firm employing six or more persons.

Youth for Christ Officers Hold Business Session at New Ocean House, Swampscott

Youth for Christ Group Plans Huge Rally Saturday in Hub

The executive council of the Youth for Christ International, Inc., today announced plans for a huge religious rally in the Boston Arena Saturday night to promote its aims of "radiant, victorious Christian living." The rally arrangements were completed at a meeting in the New Ocean House, Swampscott, where delegates reported on the serious moral conditions throughout the world.

Four members of the council, recently returned from a tour of Great Britain, Scandinavia, Holland, Belgium and France, gave a report on their activities, which included conferences with high-ranking church and civic leaders on problems of the need of youth for religion.

All members of the committee were agreed that there is a serious dearth of religion among the young people of Europe, and that this dearth is responsible for what high-ranking officials told them were the worst moral conditions among youth in the past 100 years.

Billy Graham, vice-president-at-large, said that in one large section canvassed in England it was found that only 1 per cent of the youth were in any way connected with the church. In a community of 60,000, he said, it was learned that only 100 young persons attended church regularly.

Graham, one of the youngest members of the council, reported that at one meeting with British church dignitaries, his group dressed in morning clothes because they were under the impression that a subdued attire would please their hosts.

Instead, Graham related, their hosts were looking forward to seeing much discussed loud American color schemes, so the group promptly changed into colorful sports wear with brilliant bow ties.

He added that the youth turnout, as a result of this change, was spectacular.

The response of young people to local rallies held in European centers was so encouraging, however, according to Charles B. Templeton, a member of the committee, that they were convinced of the ultimate success of their organization throughout the world.

"In Great Britain," Templeton said, "we took over the largest buildings in various centers for our revivals, and with only two exceptions there was no building large enough to accommodate the young people. In Belfast, we held six revivals and converted between 1200 and 1500 young people. In Stockholm, 10,000 responded to the rallies.

These Days

BECAUSE THE FCC censors the radio by general provisions which tie them in a knot, no radio network or radio station may pursue an editorial policy.

Newspapers may be Republican, Democratic, New Deal, Socialist, Communist or anything or none of these, but not radio networks or radio stations.

They are supposed by official order to be blah.

The broadcasters, according to FCC, are persons without minds who speak words that represent neither knowledge, experience, wisdom or decision.

If they say anything that means anything, they are supposed to give the opposition equal time to reply—which of course they avoid by every dodge known to the business, as such a chain debate would waste time, money and produce no sense.

The more successful and smarter broadcasters cover themselves skilfully, although the Left-Wingers protect themselves by all saying the same thing at the same time which creates the impression of a preponderance of opinion.

AS FOR NEWSCASTERS, they are supposed to read only what is handed them. Reading is a theatrical art. The intonation, the use of pause and emphasis, often changes the meaning.

A clever and tricky newscaster can give an impression which is different from the script when examined.

The words are the same; the impression upon the listener is different.

The networks and radio stations can do little about this because they are dealing with human factors. A newscaster swears that he read what he understood.

The principal difficulty arises from the fact that radio started as show business.

It was not a part of news but of theatricals. It was really vaudeville, in the best sense of the term—or the worst—depending upon taste.

News and comment came in later, but still as part of the show business. Most commentators and newscasters were originally hired not for their brains but for their voices. A baritone was worth more than a brain.

Noises of typewriters and telegraph keys added emphasis and excitement but no clarity. Trivial items are projected by voice and noises to appear important. That is vaudeville, not editorial handling.

ANOTHER TECHNIQUE is the so-called forum when theoretically both sides of a question are scantily discussed. The debates are so arranged that there is hardly time for a comprehensive discussion.

The other day I was invited to debate the British loan in six and a half minutes.

If the public is invited to ask questions, the speaker has not time to answer. The moderator, in such debates, owes it to the public to keep his speakers to the subject. But he rarely does.

I pick an example from "America's Town Meeting of the Air:"

"MAN: . . . Mr. Lampell, Russia made a non-aggression pact with Hitler. She didn't make any alliance with the United States.

"MR. LAMPELL: I think the question is still open to discussion as to who did not want an alliance with whom. It seemed that we were the ones who did not want collective security against Fascism during the early '30's. It was not Russia."

The question was not answered. And the "man" could not, under the rules of the game, protest. He had his chance to ask a question; he was not answered; he had to shut up. It would not have been handled that way editorially; but this is still vaudeville.

Dancer Moans Jilting by Heir

HONOLULU, May 9—Heartbroken over his abrupt departure, which left local authorities quarreling with Navy officials over handling of his morals case, a young dancer who came here to join Seaman John Ochsner said today she wanted to take the first boat back to California.

Ochsner, heir to a $2,000,000 oil fortune, flew out of here in a naval transport plane.

On landing in Oakland, Cal., he announced he was all through with Miss Marguerite Faye Human, who followed him here by stowing away on a ship from the mainland.

Asked if he still intended to marry the 19-year-old dancer he replied, "definitely, no." When he was asked what she planned to do now, he answered, "I don't care."

Miss Human sobbed on learning of his departure. "I am hurt because Johnnie left without saying a word to me, but I am going take the first boat I can get and return to California, too. All I want to do now is get home."

Meanwhile, authorities here struck to their statement that the girl involved with Ochsner in the morals charge was 15 years old despite the navy's dismissal of the accusation.

In the police charge, Ochsner is accused of meeting the minor girl at a dance to which he escorted Miss Human, but left with the younger girl after a quarrel with his partner.

Capt. Ray Madison of the Honolulu police was sharply critical of the Navy's handling of the case involving the younger girl.

Uncle Claims Dazed Blonde, Second Girl's Still in Coma

One of two young blondes found wandering early today in the downtown area was later identified at City Hospital as Marjorie Dunn, 24, of Shepton st., Dorchester.

Still in a daze, she was identified by her uncle, Raymond Colgan, who was contacted by police after the victim kept murmuring "Marjorie Dunn" when they asked her name. She recovered speedily after being greeted by Colgan and hospital authorities allowed her to go home.

Railroad police found the girl in the waiting room at Souh Station and called Boston police when she was unable to give her address or the names of her parents.

The second victim, still unidentified, was believed to be the victim of sleeping tablets. She was picked up by Sgt. Jacob M. Christensen in Court st. and promptly fell asleep on arrival at the hospital.

Cobbler Deaths Murder, Suicide

Police chalked up deaths of two elderly cobblers in Roxbury today as murder and suicide, although they were still puzzled over the motive.

Witnesses questioned after the shootings told police Guido Lorbati, 61, Burrell st., Roxbury, was shot and killed by Alfeo Tintoni, 65, Marshfield st., Roxbury, shortly after they left the Marconi Club in Shetland st.

Tintoni, they said, then walked into a vacant field near Marshfield st. and fired a bulet into his own head.

Each man owned his own shoe repair business and they had been friends for many years.

Bradford Urges Code Change to Save Housing

Lt.-Gov. Robert F. Bradford urged prompt action today on pending legislation to change the Boston building code in order that the city might not lose out on the proposed $5,000,000 Cathedral housing project in the South End.

"It appears the project may be lost to Boston or construction indefinitely postponed unless prompt action is taken," he said.

The proposed change in the code would permit construction of a type of stairway new to Massachusetts.

"Competent and expert authorities have given their full approval of the proposed construction, held to be necessary under the federal authorization, and give full assurance it is first class," Bradford said.

"The construction is consistent in every way with our rigid safety precautions and I understand other states, notably New York and Illinois, have approved and constructed projects embracing the structural detail involved here. I am advised the National Board of Fire Underwriters finds the construction in conformity with their recommended building code.

"Unless the opinions of these safety and construction experts can be refuted, it seems to me we should not quibble over technicalities or risk delay or loss of a much-needed project.

"While our population in general suffers for want of adequate housing, those who suffer most as a group are returning married veterans, who are barred in great numbers from setting up homes of their own and embarking on a normal married life."

Bulk of 2 Million Trust to B. U.

Boston University's School of Medicine will get the bulk of nearly $2,000,000 under an agreement today by which Judge Mahoney in Suffolk Probate Court terminated a trust established in October, 1942, by the late Annie E. Southwick, Marlboro st., Back Bay.

By the agreement, two cousins, Emily Binder, Corning, Ia., and Julia Hubbell, Houston, Tex., receive $18,250 each, and a third, Samuel DeCou of Woodbine, Ia., will get $15,750 instead of $5000 and $2500, respectively under the original trust.

MRS. MILLICENT BAUGHMAN

PRINCIPALS IN $50,000 SUIT—Lynn Baughman, 2-year-old Chicago baby, is the principal in a $25,000 suit brought by her mother against the youngster's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Rose Baughman, on the ground that she alienated her son's affection for his own daughter. The mother, Mrs. Millicent Baughman, also seeks $25,000 in her own behalf on the same grounds from her mother-in-law. Damages were one phase of a separate maintenance suit filed by Lynn's mother against the baby's father.

Pair Draw Fines In Cambridge Speeder War

Judge Louis L. Green cracked down on speeders in the East Cambridge court today in two cases in which defendants were charged with excessively fast driving and refusing to halt at signals of police officers.

In the first case he fined Peter A. Allesi, Jr., 22, of Southwood st., Roxbury, a total of $85 after the latter pleaded guilty to charges of operating to endanger and under the influence of liquor, in addition to failing to halt at the signal of Patrolman Thomas Brown in Central sq., Cambridge, last night. Allesi paid the fines.

Second on the dock was Attore E. Indoli, 26, of Putnam pl., Somerville, charged by Metropolitan Police with speeding, operating on the wrong side of the road and refusing to halt when signaled.

"There's altogether too much of this wild driving," Judge Green declared angrily. "That law is on the statute books for a reason and I'm going to enforce it."

He imposed a fine of $50 for the failing to halt and $10 each on the other two charges. Indoli, who had only $50 in his possession, paid that and was committed to East Cambridge jail until he could raise the remaining $20.

Girls! It Could Be Romance

From the far off Netherlands came a request today to the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission that might smack of romance.

John W. Vlek, 22-year-old Amsterdam editor, asked for the address of a 19-year-old Boston girl—any girl—with whom he could correspond.

Vlek said he was prompted to write the letter after receiving the commission's book giving industrial facts about Massachusetts.

"It is very useful for me to learn more about the people of the United States," Vlek wrote. "If you would be so kind as to provide me with the address of a girl I should be very grateful indeed."

Bus, Auto Crash Hurts W. Roxbury Women

Five West Roxbury women were injured today when a sedan collided with a Boston-bound bus from Providence in Center st., West Roxbury. No one on the bus was hurt.

N. H. Boy, 8, Paints Hub Red 2nd Time

Eight-year-old Ernest Hoyt of Dover, N. H., was picked up in the South End early today by police to whom he explained he had "come to town to see the sights."

Shortly before noon, his father, Ralph Hoyt, of Sixth st., Dover, come to the Chardon st. home to reclaim him, explaining it was the boy's second unauthorized visit to the city.

Walsh Against British Loan; Cites Dangers

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, May 9 (INS)—Sen. Walsh (D.) of Massachusetts, today announced his opposition to the proposed British loan as Senate demands for anti-strike legislation threatened to delay action on both the loan and extension of the draft.

Walsh told the Senate to grant Britain the 3¾ billion loan and deny credit to other countries would lead to "misunderstanding, discrimination, jealousy and possible war."

Senate leaders, cheered by defeat of a "test" amendment, found new troubles when a bi-partisan group served notice they would try to call up the Case labor bill this afternoon.

Sen. Walsh said in part, "I am unable to persuade myself that I have any right or authority, in time of peace, to loan or give the money of American taxpayers to any foreign country, regardless of my desire to assist these other countries in the restoration of the losses they have suffered as hte result of war.

"The United States government is not a banking institution. The taxpayers' money should be used for promoting the general welfare of our people at home. There are undoubtedly many in this country who desire to help fiance other countries.

"I am willing to permit a needy country to float a loan in the United States so that sympathizers and supporters and friends could assist the nation in need of financial aid.

"The proposal before us is to take $3,750,000,000 out of all taxpayers' funds, and loan that money to a foreign country. I say "loan." In the British Parliament this proposal has been referred to as a "gift.' Here in the Congress it is being called a 'loan.'

"Some may argue gifts or loans to foreign countries promote good relations. I have never subscribed to that philosophy.

"We all desire good relations with all the nations of the world. We want peace. To single out one nation, even if, by special ties, we are closely bound to it, is not the road to world peace."

Simple

SEATTLE, May 9 (AP)—Officials of the Boeing Aircraft Co. felt somewhat akin to the man who painted himself in the corner when they looked over their new skylights in Plant No. Two and found there was no way to wash them.

Later the company reported that it had solved the problem. One of every 24 panes will be knocked out and then maintenance workers can reach through the holes and wash the other sides of the panes.

After that, they'll merely have to replace the 900 broken sections.

"But Officer, can't I park just long enough to buy a box of Ex-Lax?"

Aw, have a heart, Officer! Give the lady a break! She's like a lot of other folks who always like to have a supply of Ex-Lax on hand. It's such a dependable laxative—thorough and effective, yet gentle, too. Not too strong, not too mild, Ex-Lax is the "Happy Medium." And its good chocolate taste has made it America's favorite. As a precaution, use only as directed. 10¢ and 25¢ at all druggists.

Chinese Reds Using Jap Arms

CHANGCHUN, May 7 (Delayed) (INS)—Most of the automatic rifles, heavy artillery and tanks used by Chinese Communists in Manchuria were obtained from the Japanese during the Soviet occupation.

Gen. Chow Pao Chung, who led the Communists in their battle for Changchun, charged the foreign policy of the national government in China is to "let one foreign power fight another," adding:

"A Fascist section in the Kuomintang (Nationalist Government) wants Chinese internal affairs to become an international dispute in order to stir up war between the United States and Russia."

Russians in Changchun criticized America for lend-lease arms the Nationalist troops used at Changchun.

When one of Chiang Kai-shek's B-25's strafed Communist lines, the manager of a Soviet hotel remarked to U. S. Military Attache Robert Brigg of Chicago:

"It's easy to see which side you're on now."

Brigg explained the United States had no control over a lend-lease plane piloted by the Chinese.

The Russian replied:

"I can't see the pilot and neither can you."

AWOL Soldier, 14, Awaits Fate After Wedding Girl, 15

SEATTLE, May 9 (INS)—Army authorities are awaiting instructions today on what to do with a 14-year-old soldier accused of going AWOL for a honeymoon with his 15-year-old bride.

The soldier, Harry James Slyter, was held in the Ft. Lawton jail at Seattle awaiting word from Buckley Field authorities.

The story came to light when the child bride, the former Patsy Ann Herbert of Denver, tearfully told newsmen of her husband's plight.

She said Slyter enlisted at Ketchikan, Alaska, last October, giving his age as 18. The boy is the son of a blind woman who plays an accordion on Seattle streets for a living.

The couple met less than a month ago at a Denver drug store where the girl was working. They were married by a Denver minister April 19 after he again declared he was 18.

The couple came to Seattle 10 days ago, and Slyter began to worry about being AWOL. Early this week he called Ft. Lawton and was told to "come out and talk things over." He did and was put in jail.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 9 (AP)—Negotiations for withdrawal of British forces from Egypt, at the crossroads of the British Empire, began today in the police-guarded Egyptian foreign ministry.

Reliable sources said the British were asking one year in which to get their forces out, while Egypt was urging the withdrawal be completed in six months.

Huge U-Boat Loss Told by Doenitz

NUERNBERG, May 9 (INS)— The terrible penalty that Germany paid in manpower for her U-boat warfare was disclosed today by Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, head of the Nazi navy and successor to Hitler as fuehrer.

Admiral Doenitz, on the witness stand in his own defense at the Nuernberg war crimes trial, admitted Germany lost from 640 to 670 underseas raiders, and of 40,000 men who went to sea in them, 30,000 failed to return.

Of these, he said, 25,000 perished.

Truman

Sen. Morse (R.) of Oregon had expressed the opinion the White House had not used its full powers to combat the mine shutdown.

Mr. Truman asserted, however, he had used the full powers of his great office and would continue to use them.

Another questioner wanted to know whether Mr. Truman felt he had the authority to bring an end to the coal strike without the acquiescence of Lewis.

The president replied he had not come into that yet but that the government was making such a survey now.

When asked whether he wanted any more labor legislation, Mr. Truman recalled he had asked Congress last December to enact statutory fact-finding machinery to deal with major labor disputes and he still believed it would be a good thing.

The President pointed out currently there is no law which would permit him to set up an investigating board in the coal dispute such as was appointed earlier this week to head off a strike of airplane pilots against TWA.

A reporter pointed out to the President, in connection with union royalties, that the National Wage Stabilization Board this week authorized a 1 per cent payroll deduction for a pension fund for 150,000 AFL electrical workers.

Mr. Truman said, however, the electrical workers' plan is different from the coal miners' proposal.

The President also said at the news conference that he would seize the railroads on behalf of the government if necessary to keep transportation going. He said he was hopeful the Railroad Brotherhoods and the nation's carriers would reach an agreement to avert a threatened strike of 300,000.

Home for 48 Years Razed, She Lives in Coop

PASSAIC, N. J., May 9 (AP)—Home for Mrs. Mary Martin at 72 is a little chicken coop, rickety and weatherbeaten, last link to the house she shared for 48 years with her husband, Michael, who died four years ago.

Last week workmen tore down the long greenhouse where she and her husband had raised and sold flowers and vegetables; they ripped away a wing of the house and half the roof came down. The people who had bought the house had asked Mrs. Martin to move, just as had city officials and the previous owners.

They told her the house was unfit because it lacked sanitation and was without gas, electricity or water. They offered to find her another home, to move her there at no expense and give her a bonus besides.

But Mrs. Martin remained in the house until it was torn down. Then she moved—into the chicken coop, huddling against a wall when the nights became cold and when it rained.

William E. Maguire, Passaic welfare director, sought rooms for her, but she remained. He says she is eligible for federal old age pension, but she doesn't care. She hasn't seemed to care since her husband died and she lost the house on taxes.

Finally, Tuesday night, a welfare worker succeeded in getting Mrs. Martin to look over a furnished room and she said she would try and stay there.

Yesterday, Mrs. Martin was back at the chicken coop.

Anti-Government Trend Scored

HARTFORD, May 9 (AP)—Alfred C. Fuller, president of the Manufacturers' Ass'n, today called the coal strike "the whirlwind harvest we are now reaping as a result of more than ten years' trend against the spirit of constitutional government."

He said "the most serious threats to the welfare of the state comes from three other directions." He listed them as:

Affecting continued expansion of employment opportunities already retarder by steel and auto strikes.

A slowdown and eventual stoppage of production which will cause "needless unemployment when railroads are forced to refuse to accept shipments of finished goods or deliver needed parts or raw materials to our plants . . ."

The threat to next winter's coal supply and to the resumption of normal railroad service after the coal strike is settled.

OPA has kept food prices down...

Don't let OPA die now!

We believe in the principles of the OPA. What's more, we actively support them.

And we're not bringing pressure anywhere just because some existing imperfections in OPA may be irksome to us and to you—though, believe us, some are! On the contrary, our most sincere wish is that OPA perfects its program to the point where you will receive maximum protection—and manufacturers and retailers, a minimum of hardship.

After all, who is perfect? We aren't . . . and we're not one hundredth the size of OPA.

But we are one hundred per cent behind the OPA objective . . . which is to keep prices from soaring out of sight during a period of scarcities. Up to now, OPA has done that successfully. And we're for anything that keeps prices down—except depressions which are the aftermath of inflation.

Keeping prices down means keeping down the cost of living. That's what we think OPA stands for . . . and that's what we've stood for since our first day in business. Our policies—our organization—our resources—all have constantly been devoted to bringing you the best available merchandise at the lowest possible prices.

Yes, our goal is lower food prices. The OPA goal is lower cost of living. With a project of that scope to regulate, all we can say is: "Let's do everything we can to help OPA keep living costs down."

If you feel, as we do, that OPA is important to the welfare of our nation at this time, write to your Senators and Congressman. We believe they want to know how you feel about it.

WALWORTH COMPANY

Boston Works

FOR humanitarian achievement in saving lives and reducing suffering . . . for outstanding achievement in their own industry, Liberty Mutual Insurance Company presents its SAFETY AWARD to the men and women of Walworth Company.

These employees win this new distinction for the remarkable success of their campaign to prevent accidents. They have reduced lost time accidents by 58% during 1945, and today their record is substantially below the National average for their industry.

This splendid safety record is the result of fine teamwork between the workers and management of Walworth Company and insurance loss prevention engineers. It is a shining example of what can be done to make life safer and more secure.

Accident prevention pays big dividends — to the nation in the form of better living and enduring strength—to management in the form of smoother production and lower costs. But the greatest beneficiaries are the men and women who do not get hurt or killed — the workers and their families who continue to live safer, more secure lives free from pain and fear and loss.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School.

Q—When I opened a package of bean seed that I had left over from last year, the beans were full of holes and small beetles were all over them. What are these insects and will the beans grow?

A—The insect you have is the bean weevil and is common in bean seeds that have not been treated. Unless the damage is severe, the seed should germinate and grow. Bean seed should be stored in a cool place to check the development of this insect.

Q—When should the leaves be cut off of the daffodils that have stopped blooming?

A—For best results you should wait until all the green color is gone from the leaf. It must be kept in mind that these leaves make food to store for next year's growth and must not be taken off too soon.

Q—I have been told that when starting a late garden it is best to spade the fertilizer under when digging. Is this true?

A—This depends to some extent on your soil type. Spading some of the fertilizer in will get it down where the roots can get to it. For even distribution in the soil, I would suggest spading in about half of the required amount and using the rest later as a surface application.

Q—What is the best location for chrysanthemums?

A—It is generally considered best to grow chrysanthemums on the south or southeast side of the house or wall. Cutting off part of the late afternoon sun seems to encourage better blooms.

Q—How can I keep blackberries from spreading? We planted one row and now they have taken over the whole yard.

A—This bramble is not adapted to home gardening for this reason. The only way to keep them from spreading is to keep cutting the new shoots back as they appear.

LOWER DEBT CEILING

THERE IS a growing disposition in Congress to call a halt to government expenditures in excess of revenues.

There are increasing signs that members of Congress are mustering up the courage to act according to that disposition.

The most recent, and most significant, evidence of this commendable revival of both the legislative integrity and moral courage of Congress is provided by the Finance Committee of the Senate.

By unanimous vote of its members, who include the most influential representatives of both the Democratic and Republican parties in the Senate the Committee has recommended that the legal authority of the Government of the United States to contract debt be REDUCED BY TWENTY-FIVE BILLION DOLLARS.

The present legal debt limit is three hundred billion dollars.

The actual debt at the present time is very little under two hundred and seventy-five billions.

Contemplated and prospective deficits are certain to push the debt up to the legal ceiling within a matter of months.

But it is plain to be seen that if Congress lowers the ceiling by twenty-five billions, as the Senate Committee recommends, there cannot legally BE any more deficits—because the margin for government spending in excess of revenues will be gone.

THIS WOULD BE the first time in SIXTEEN YEARS that Congress had compelled the Government to live within its means.

Always before, in all this time, whenever the Government desired to spend money in excess of its current revenues and the legal debt limit intervened, Congress simply RAISED the limit.

Congress got into this habit during the depression years when the New Deal Administration, pursuing its policy of deficit spending in order to keep itself in power, soon found itself cramped for borrowing room under the then prevailing legal debt ceiling of forty billion dollars.

Every time thereafter that the accumulating New Deal deficits approached the ceiling, the New Deal Congress moved it up—by short steps at first, but eventually by leaps and bounds.

And, of course, when the war came along, the whole idea of keeping a legal ceiling on the national debt became a fiction.

But with the return of peace there has also been a return of reason—or at least a suggestion of returning reason.

IF CONGRESS now has the courage to cut the cloth of government spending to the pattern of its current revenues, the whole CHARACTER of government will have to change.

The Government would be compelled to make sweeping economies in its entire establishment, eliminating many bureaus and curbing them all.

The Government payroll would have to be reduced.

Government subsidies would have to end.

Government loans and gifts to foreign nations would have to be considered solely on the basis of American ability to pay.

"I believe this section is a concrete step toward the end of deficit financing by the Federal Government" says Senator Byrd of Virginia, a member of the Committee, in commenting on the proposed debt limit reduction.

"Unanimous approval of this action encourages me to anticipate that the country will shortly be on a pay as we go basis."

It is surely to be HOPED that the days of the "rubber debt ceiling" are over.

The Senate Finance Committee has greatly encouraged that hope.

If the whole Congress is capable of the same demonstration of integrity and courage, the American tradition of sound financing may at last be restored to American government.

Not finding that the additions much encumber.

—BYRON.

THE CO-OPERATION received from readers of this department in disproving erroneous claims is very gratifying. For example, take the claim that people snore only when lying on their backs. A Chicagoan writes: "It is not true that people snore only when lying on their backs. My husband snores loudly while lying on his side, back or stomach. The next time you are in Chicago I would be glad to have you come out to our house and listen to my husband snore."

SIDELIGHTS — There seems to be some question as to who originated Mother's Day, but there is no doubt that Father's Day received its original impetus from Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash. Mrs. Dodd's father successfully reared a motherless family of six children . . . The star-gazers say the most outstanding trait of Aries (March 22-April 20) women is determination. They may be right about that. Joan Crawford is Aries-born and she is the most determined woman in the history of Hollywood.

Joan Crawford

BROOKLYN AGAIN: As to all-daughter families, the O'Neils of Boston, who have eight daughters and no sons, are topped by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mainard of Los Angeles, Cal., who have an all-daughter family of nine. But both Boston and California are topped by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Buffalo of Brooklyn, who have a family of 12 daughters and no sons. And one of the daughters has a family of her own of nine daughters and no sons.

PASSING BY: Eugene List. Musician. He is the former G. I. Joe who played the piano at the Potsdam conference and aroused the applause and approval of Messrs. Truman, Churchill and Stalin . . . Millicent Rogers. Most recent of the long list of females who have been named "the best dressed women." She says she dresses to please the men and gives no thought to female opinion. Millicent also says that padded shoulders shorten a woman's neck and make her look like a prize fighter. My girl friend says Greta Garbo started the padded shoulder trend when she brought a man's coat into a Beverly Hills tailoring establishment and said: "Make me a suit with shoulders like that."

SWIM SUITS:—Now I note a reference to some feminine bathing attire titled a "whistle swim suit". No photograph accompanied the article, so I don't know what type of bathing suit this is. Every year you think the girls couldn't possibly wear scantier bathing suits without being arrested. But every year they do. It was the seaside sirens of the Pacific Coast who were the first to wear one-piece bathing suits. In fact, this type of beach wear was once known as the Pacific Coast bathing suit. That was around 1923.

INQUIRY: The author of one of my favorite poems is unknown to me. This inspiring bit of verse is usually marked "Anon" or "Author Unknown." I would, therefore, like to ask if anybody knows the author of the poem from which the following is an excerpt:

If you have a friend worth loving
Love him. Yes, and let him know
That you love him 'ere life's evening
Tinge his brow with sunset glow.
Why should good words ne'er be said
Of a friend—till he is dead?

OUT WEST: Am informed a cafe in Big Bear City, Cal., gives a quarter of a pound of butter with each rum drink purchased. Very interesting. That's one place where a husband can't rightly squawk if his wife asks him to get a quarter of a pound of butter on the way home.

THEY ARE INDIGNANT: A number of feminine subscribers have written to express bitterness and indignation that among the things Dorothy Lamour reported missing after a recent robbery were 36 pairs of nylon stockings. The ladies angrily state that it is no wonder the average woman has difficulty in getting even one pair of nylons when movie stars and other women of wealth have 36 pairs.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

ONE DAY I was standing on the Southwest corner of Elm and Spruce
When a lady she come up to me and said:
"I hope you will excuse my apparent impertinence, because I am not impertinent at all,

Westbrook Pegler

But anyone can see you have intellectually a great deal on the ball,
And I have been in several quandaries all the livelong day about foreign relations, such as Russia, and the OPA.
And then you take the housing problem and just try and buy a sheet
Or a shirt or some shorts or don't even mention butter and very little meat.
But, still and all, the landlord has got his troubles, too
And if they don't pay the rent, it don't do him no good to sue
Because, like as not, they are just no-good shiftless bums
And they won't work a lick as long as that unemployment money comes.
Because, after all, I mean supposing you get twenty-six bucks, absolutely free
For setting in the bleachers, why you know as well as me
It certainly looks like the Communists are back of all this confusion
And leave me ask you how would Mr. Stalin like the same kind of intrusion?
And, furthermore, I don't want to be sarcastic but I think I do recall
When those Russians were standing with their backs right against the wall
And they didn't have no bombers or Jeeps or guns or tanks
And we just said to help theirself and never mind about no thanks.
But, at least, you would think they would leave us be in peace today
Instead of always messing with our wonderful old American way."

"WELL, LADY, I was about to say, for even if I don't set on a bench in the park
Thinking up solutions to our manifold problems so grim and stark
Why, anyone with the exercise of a little old-fashioned American common sense
Can see that if they keep low ceilings over the landlord's rents
And the taxes keep going up and janitor service and repairs and heat
And then LaGuardia he keeps hollering we are wasting bread, potatoes and meat
And all about how Yugoslavia could live a month on what we throw away
At Shor's, the Stork and Twenty-One in just one single day.
But I would like respectfully to ask him what's the use
Of always hollering like that because the main thing is to produce.
Then everybody will get good wages and buy a brand new car
And it will be very beneficial no matter what class you are.
With farmers purchasing the products of our mechanical ingenuity
And wage-hands consuming agricultural products in a flowing continuity.
And white-collar workers sending out the bills and adding up the checks."

SO, LIKE I SAID, I was standing at Elm and Spruce this day
When up this very intelligent lady come and unto me did say
About as I have stated in the inquiries foregoing
A tribute, as I take it, to my own abundant knowing
So I am very flattered but, after all, I am only human, and,
Lady, I thank God every day my name isn't Harry S. Truman.

Hollywood

By Dorothy Manners
Substituting for Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 9—The rootless, ruthless black market millionaires who wander from resort to resort with nothing more on their minds than this year's yacht or mink coat, are the "inspiration" for the next Milton Sperling-Joseph Bernhard movie.

Gary Cooper

Titled "Golden City"—could be Miami, maybe?—the picture is definitely set for Lilli Palmer and Gary Cooper. Gary and Miss Palmer, who is Mrs. Rex Harrison in private life, are currently making "Cloak and Dagger" for United States Pictures — the Sperling-Bernhard independent unit releasing through Warners.

Action takes place right after the war when this breed of "socialite" sprang up from under rocks and started its own trail to inflation by drunken spending. Ted Allen, the author, is a former feature correspondent with A. P.

BILL EYTHE is busier than a bird dog (never saw a busy bird dog in my life—but that's the phrase) getting his passport ready, having inoculations, and preparing to leave for London June 10. Bill is the first Hollywood actor actually to get across to make a picture—a romantic drama, "Meet Me At Dawn," which Marcel Hellman will direct. The leading lady and the cast will be completely British, although I understand 20th Century-Fox has a cut somewhere in this picture for lend-leasing Eythe.

AFTER GOING so far as to talk star names for the production, 20th has allowed its $50,000 option to lapse on "Impresario", the story of Sol Hurok. The original deal carried the provision that Hurok would deliver some of his famous personalities including Patrice Munsel, young Metropolitan thrush, the Russian Cossack Choir and many other personalities he has developed and sponsored. The rumor was hot all over town that MGM had hopped in and acquired the same package deal at a terrific figure—but that was a wrong lead. Hurok is delivering a ballet for a Joe Pasternak production—but this has no bearing on his life story.

THERE'S A STORY almost as exciting as a movie back of Susan Douglas, the girl who scored in "He Who Gets Slapped," in New York, and who is being brought to Hollywood for "Bel Ami," with George Sanders. She is very young and will play a 16-year-old in the movie, but since coming to this country from Czechoslovakia less than three years ago, she was a messenger girl with MGM's Eastern office for six months, a radio bit player, a hit in a Theater Guild production —and now a movie actress. Albert Lewin first noticed her when she was a messenger girl and thought she had movie possibilities—but even he was surprised a year later when she became an overnight hit in "He Who Gets Slapped."

CUFF NOTES: If Harry James accepts the $75,000 offer for a three-weeks' tour through Mexico and South America this summer, Betty Grable and the baby will go with him . . . Walter Wanger borrowed Marsha Hunt for the secretary-siren in "Smash Up." Susan Hayward and Stuart Heisler are in New York now getting background shots . . . Besides having one of the top roles in Sam Goldwyn's "The Best Years of Our Lives," Hoagy Carmichael is writing two original songs for the picture . . . It's the 15th anniversary for Ned Blanc, owner of Nancy's Dress Store, where so many top stars bought cute clothes before their salaries grew up to Adrian, et al. . . . Peter Lorre has been signed by Bob Hope to knife him in the back in "The Private Eye" . . . Sonja Henie's off to San Francisco to visit Letterman General Hospital and to make the annual Apparel Manufacturers' Ass'n award to the best West Coast designers.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Robert Stack's heart is Virginia Stafford, daughter of Charlie Wrightsman; Vivien Leigh is everywhere in New York with her close friends, Garson Kanin and Ruth Gordon; eyebrows arched upward when Eva Gabor walked into Ciro's in a party with Connie Hilton, hotel man and estranged husband of her sister, Zsa Zsa Hilton. Wouldn't have meant a thing except that the Hilton rift was very bitter. He's a good friend of Eva's despite all the trouble; the "Oklahoma!" opening was a hummer, in Los Angeles, even bringing out the repeaters who had seen it before in New York. Van Johnson with the Keenan Wynns, Joseph Cotten and Zachary Scott, Ginger Rogers, the George Murphys, Celeste Holm and Alfred Drake, both of the original company, John Carroll with a gal who looked as if she might be Marie McDonald from the back of her head—all loved every minute of it.

GENE KELLY has borrowed Constance Collier's New York apartment and wants to vacation there before returning to work; Tony Martin's humming the new tunes to Linda Christians these Spring evenings; and while we're romancing—June Fraser is being courted long-distance by Harold Brundage, Park ave. socialite; Margot Grahame recuperating and coming along nicely following an operation; Robert Taylor goes to Wichita to pick up his private plane and fly it back to Hollywood; hey, Miss P.—your former Girl Friday, Belle Postel, now Mike Todd's right hand, is back in Hollywood and sends her love. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Boston After Dark

DIALOGUE IN THE TERRACE CLUB, at Narragansett: GENIAL CITIZEN, filled with the well-being that comes of having a winner, and talking over his shoulder to a slim, handsome stranger who happened to be in the line at the cashier's window under the misapprehension that he was about to make a bet for the next race: "Glad you had the winner, too, chum!" . . . HANDSOME SLIM STRANGER (baffled): "Huh?"

GENIAL CITIZEN: "Yes, sir . . . This is a soft racket . . . Only thing that keeps me away from the track six days a week is those eight dependents . . . Ha! Ha! . . . Not that I couldn't do better for them down here than in the office . . . But you know how it is . . . If the little woman happens to call the shop and the answer is: where am I?—well—You know how they behave . . . But this is certainly soft . . . I bet a combination ticket last race, and my horse was nosed out . . . Blenweed . . . Should have won, too!"

SLIM HANDSOME STRANGER—mystified at being among apparent winners, and checking by a glance at the ticket window and finding that it is marked "Cashier" and not "Seller" . . . "Yah!" . . . GENIAL CITIZEN: "The little woman hates for me to gamble . . . But she takes a hatful of dough whenever I turn it in without any questions . . . What does she think I do—print it?"

SLIM HANDSOME STRANGER (Politely): "Pardon me. I'm in the wrong line. GENIAL CITIZEN: (A bit belligerently): 'How does the War Department think I get it, can you answer me that? What does the think I do, engrave it?" . . . HANDSOME SLIM STRANGER "I'm sure I do not know, and if you will release my lapel—this is an Isaiah Gordon suit—I'll get in the right line, sir. I'm out of place in this one." . . . GENIAL STRANGER: "Okay, chum. We're not all hicks in Boston. . . . (Accusingly) . . . you look like a New Yorker" . . . (Fanning a sheaf of $2 tickets—three of them—and riffling them in front of the long, aquiline nose of the slim, handsome stranger) "See these? All on the winner! Three tickets . . . And I didn't get touted, either . . . I bet on the name . . . King's Feast . . . It's either a feast or a famine, says I, and it had to be a feast with me, because—ha! ha!—it would have been a famine if I didn't win . . . So what happens? . . . Down it pops like a trained pig . . . King's Feast . . . Each of these tickets represents $56.00, and three times fifty-six is—is . . . Well . . . Three times sixty is a hundred and sixty, minus twelve—which is four times three—makes 148 clamerous, or fish-skins as we call them in my racket . . . I'm in insurance . . . As I was—"

SLIM STRANGER (lurching to the right as he tries to tug himself out of the Genial Citizen's wet and obnoxious grasp) "Excuse me, please, I'm in the wrong line!" . . . GENIAL CITIZEN: (still clutching the stranger's lapel): "As I was telling the ball and chain last night—when she said it was going to rain—'Don't phone me tomorrow afternoon because I've got to be busy on an adjustment in Medford—" SLIM STRANGER (desperately) "But it hasn't been raining now, has it!" GENIAL CITIZEN (triumphantly: "Jus' what I tol' the war department. (confidentially) I used ter call her the storm and strife . . . I says to her it won't rain tomorrow otherwise I wouldn't be going to Medford to adjust this case . . . You can't do business on a settlement in the rain because the sucker thinks he's worse off than he is . . . So see what happened?"

SLIM, RESIGNED, but still handsome stranger: "No, what?" . . . GENIAL CITIZEN: "Why, it's a beautiful day! . . . Perfect . . . And take a gander at this mob down here bucking this kind of a grind . . . Can y'imagine? . . . What a mob! . . . All losin' their hard-earned money . . . How c'n y'account for a mob like this!" Slim, handsome stranger determined at last to wiggle away and so doing by a violent twist toward the seller's windows, his original destination): "HOW do I account for it? . . . Simple . . . I'm Al Ritz of the Ritz Brothers, now playing the Bradford Roof . . . We always pack'em in, wherever we go! Good day and bad luck!"

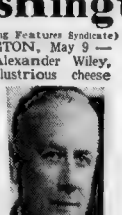
WASHINGTON, May 9 — Sen. Alexander Wiley, the illustrious cheese booster from Wisconsin, brought three frying pans into the Senate the other day and started banging them around to illustrate his contention that OPA is taking American business from the frying pan into the fire.



Senator Wiley

Let us hope that the venerable gruyere guy does not lug a solarium into the Senate to demonstrate that people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones.

STARTLING ITEM in a local paper: "Rep. John Sparkman of Alabama will speak on 'Why I Believe in Immorality.'"
Why, Mr. Sparkman!

GEN. GEORGE C. MARSHALL, our ambassador to China, has made what seems, at first glance, a very strange request. He has asked the War Dept. to send him 50 elderly colonels, adding that ones with gray or white hair would be preferred.

The explanation is that these colonels will be called upon to perform extremely delicate liaison work and will need all the goodwill from the Chinese they can muster. Gen. Marshall wishes them to look venerable because the Chinese revere age.

INCIDENTALLY, this policy is not new with us. During the war we sent as many elderly colonels as possible to help train the Chinese. They'd take instructions more readily from the oldsters.

The group of newspaper publishers and editors who toured Europe inspecting the occupied zones have just returned to our midst. The party disbanded here with mutual protestations of esteem.

Paul Bellamy, the distinguished Cleveland editor, was picked out for special honors at the farewell ceremony. He was presented with an impressive medal by his colleagues for his outstanding performance during the tour. The inscription on the medal reads heroically:

"For Sobriety Beyond Reasonable Expectations."

LESLIE BIFFLE, secretary of the Senate, has just received this letter from Henry Ruhl, New York patent attorney:

"When—some months ago—an eminent Senator deplored the absence of white dress shirts I could scarcely refuse his plight the tribute of a tear. Having decided that the fugitive pleasures of the drawing room should be left to cozcombs and fops, I am sending you three dress shirts—freshly laundered—which please distribute to three of your most threadbare members. Only then will I have peace of mind."

SECRETARY KRUG delivered a couple of interesting statistics at a Shrine luncheon the other day. One was that the Bureau of Indian Affairs, usually thought of as a small branch of government, has 12,000 employes.

The other was that the Dept. of Agriculture has twice as many employes as the Dept. of the Interior.

I SEE by the local papers that Postmaster-General Robert E. Hannegan has got mixed up in his correspondence again. This letter from the P. M. G. was received by a well-known Washington resident:

"A 3-cent commemorative postage stamp depicting the Honorable Discharge Emblem will be placed on sale May 9, 1946. The first day sale ceremony will be conducted in the East Room of the White House at 12:30 p. m. that date, at which time I will present the first sheet of the new stamps to President Truman.

"You are cordially invited to attend this ceremony. Please enter the White House grounds through the north gate."

The recipient of the letter was Charles G. Ross, President Truman's secretary.

Arlington JVA Starts Garden

Although the weather has prevented them from planting many vegetables, boys of the Arlington 4-H Club, who are also organized as a Junior Victory Army corps, have started cultivation of their 1946 garden on Warren st.

Sponsor of the corps is Henry E. Keenan, 801 Massachusetts ave., who has headed various campaigns in which the boys have participated. These have included two clothing drives for relief of destitute peoples abroad.

At a meeting of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs, plans were mapped for a city-wide collection of canned goods for starving people overseas, and the help of all JVA boys and girls will be enlisted.

Harry Fox will serve as chairman.

Drives for canned food are already underway by the Defense and Aviation Corps of Dorchester and the MacArthur Corps of Revere.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and address to the Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

COAL CRISIS

CUTS TRAIN SERVICE STARTING MAY 10

Office of Defense Transportation Orders Curtailment in Passenger Service

TO MEET THE NATION'S MOST SERIOUS COAL CRISIS, the Office of Defense Transportation has ordered a drastic reduction in the coal-burning passenger locomotive mileage of all railroads. This will cut approximately 28,000 train miles a day from New York Central service starting next Friday, May 10th. And, by the following Wednesday, May 15th, service will be virtually halved.

126 TRAINS WILL BE DROPPED MAY 10th. And many remaining trains will be slowed by extra stops to spread service in the best possible way. Many observation and lounge cars will be replaced by equipment of greater carrying capacity. But after all possible adjustments, the situation will still be even more serious than in wartime.

For Further Information, Ask Your Ticket Agent. But please be patient, as during this crisis, both his window and his telephone will be overworked.

Have a cheery GUINNESS! It's different. Full-bodied, invigorating, nourishing—you'll like it!

Guinness is good with meals as an appetizer. Good before retiring—Relax with Guinness if you have a little difficulty in going to sleep easily. Good if you're underweight . . . and good anytime you're thirsty! Its clean, racy flavour never palls.

GUINNESS STOUT is the largest selling brew in the world, made in Dublin, Ireland, since 1759, of barley, hops, water, special Guinness yeasts—and nothing else. It matures over a year in oak vats and Bottle until consumed. Neither pasteurized nor filtered, Guinness thus contains active yeast . . . its natural goodness.

Due to export controls and Service needs, GUINNESS is hard to find. But it will be back here again before long. EDWARD & JOHN BURKE, LTD., Long Island City 1, New York, Sole U. S. Distributors. GU-256 them to the hardest hit essential users.

The State House conference was an all day affair, with officials seeking to meet the request of the Civilian Production Administration for drastic rationing or a dimout.

The dimout alternative was what everyone was trying to avoid.

Among those at the meeting was Edward P. Barry, state fuel administrator, who brought the encouraging news that his department has located 60,000 tons of soft coal here at plants which have converted to oil in the last two years. All of it is to be made available for essential coal users under an OPA agreement that purchasers will pay original prices.

Barry joined with public safety officials in arguing against the dimout if possible. He pointed out even this severe measure would bring only a meagre saving of fuel and the safety angle far outweighs the small saving.

There was no question but industries already had begun to shut down. Borden Covel, regional director of Solid Fuels Administrator, reported a number of tanneries had taken this step as well as dozens of small manufacturers.

In Brockton, an emergency meeting of shoe manufacturers was called to discuss possibility of a one-week shutdown of all shoe factories in the Brockton area. Such action would throw more than 8000 persons out of work in 22 factories.

Among those trying to work out a solution was Chandler W. Jones, an executive of the New England Power Ass'n., who was called Sunday to Washington conferences with OPA Administrator John D. Small.

Power rationing may mean a big cut in electricity used for advertising and amusements, according to Chairman Flaherty, and may affect the first night baseball game scheduled for Braves Field Saturday.

It is up to state authorities to determine the extent of power rationing, according to W. P. Homans, regional CPA administrator. He said action by state officials would be necessary to put rationing and a dimout in effect.

Announcing that electric utility coal stocks are "reaching the danger point," the CPA instructed all electric-supply firms in the state to pool facilities "so as to equalize coal stocks to the greatest amount practical in the current national emergency."

The CPA suggest that later electricity be prohibited for all uses except for "public health and safety."

The concern over power was a major development in the paralyzing industrial crisis which brought immediate threat of temporary unemployment to thousands of New Englanders as key coal-using industries reported they would be forced to curtail or cease operation if the strike does not come to an early end.

At least 2500 Boston & Maine Railroad and Railway Express employes were idle in the New England area as a result of the ODT embargoes, effective at midnight, to conserve fuel.

Seeking some relief for this hard hit section, Govs. To[illegible] of Massachusetts and Pastore of Rhode Island were in Washington today to confer with top government officials.

Transportation difficulties as a result of the cut in passenger train service, effective at midnight, also loomed as a major problem. Officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., announced that all bus companies together did not have enough buses to handle the additional passenger load expected over the week-end.

In Washington, Gov. Tobin said he would confer with Interior Secretary J. A. Krug.

"There are still some supplies of bituminous coal at southern docks and at the mines," Tobin declared.

Strike Causes Bread Shortage in Iowa

DES MOINES, May 9 (AP)—The staff of life has gone under the counter in Des Moines.

No local flour shortage caused bread to disappear from grocery shelves, but a strike of 250 members of the Bakery and Confectioners Workers Local 34 (AFL) which shut down five large bakeries supplying the bulk of bread used in the State capital and a good-sized chunk of Iowa.

AT 69, GETS RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Calls This Famous Cereal "Wonderful Laxative Food"

Feeling down and out because of constipation? Read the words of cheer in this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I am 69 years old and up to two years ago, I never knew what irregularity was. But I sure suffered agonies for nearly two years. Then I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. It is wonderful. How I wish every man who suffers the way I did, could hear of and try this wonderful laxative food." John T. Brennan, 611 E. Camilla St., Whittier, Calif.

Imagine! You, too, may never have to take another harsh laxative for constipation due to lack of bulk in your diet—if you eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. If after 10 days you are not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan. You will get double your money back! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's a natural laxative food providing gentle bulk helpful to normal laxation. Eat All-Bran every day as a delicious cereal—or in muffins.

Ask your grocer for ALL-BRAN. Made by Kellogg's Battle Creek and Omaha.

OVER-THE-SHOULDER HANDBAGS are here to stay . . . thanks to Koret who introduced them to this country . . . and who now presents this unusual pouch silhouette with its functional butterfly closure of decorative metal trimmed leather wings that catch the widely belted top. An indispensable gadabout all-year-round in both town and country . . . it mates as admirably with summer dresses as with sportswear—. R. M.

Eyes Important in Beauty Setup

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

WHAT, NO DIAMOND for the hair? Then, put it in your eyes . . . that proverbial twinkle, twinkle to sparkle as brilliantly as the most fiery blue-white gem. We won't plagiarize on the poet and say that "the eyes are the windows of the soul" . . . but they are certainly the windows of your personality . . . and they deserve the best window dressing.

The great American function is promoting and merchandising. So why shouldn't a gal subscribe to the modern method of high-pressure presentation and promote and merchandise her own sphere of influence . . . her beauty? It's legal, logical and luring to play up perfected poise and the secret footlight folly via nature's only telling decoy . . . the eyes.

If you are going to eye-dentify those pools of blue, brown, hazel . . . mine are green, what color do you have? . . . give them half a chance to develop their deep, dramatic potentialities. Fringe them! Whether your individual style is exotic or piquant . . . subtle or frankly "open air sports girl" . . . there's a little Bernhardt or Duse in the best of us, if the truth be told, and mascara to fringe the personality posers with loveliness is fantasy that's fun.

Ten years ago . . . a noted beauty house which now is devoted exclusively to eye care and nothing else on the beauty agenda . . . began an intensive study of eye makeup. Experiments were made with an Egyptian formula . . . Cleopatra's dynamic pools were no slouch of allure if you know your history . . . and chemists worked patiently to adapt it. It had to be harmless . . . it must not run or smudge . . . it had to be in a wide range of colors.

And today we have that run-proof, smudge-proof mascara AND in 10 shades.

In addition to the mascara . . . there are herbal eye pads, eye cream, eyelash emollient and floral eye lotion to make up the lexicon of eye beauty sponsored by this house of skilled eye specialists.

For the name of these eye-dentifying beautifiers, including the smudge-proof mascara color palette, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, Monday through Saturday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE FASHION edict for spring . . . and especially in evening clothes . . . is high romance. Diamond designers have followed suit and evolved a paved-with-diamonds starfish to be worn at the side of an upswept hairdo. And for the newest eye-to-eye beauty luxury, there is a smudge-proof, run-proof Egyptian-formulated mascara in TEN shades

Cure Light Spring Appetite With Fresh Early Produce

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

WINTER, SUMMER, AUTUMN, and spring appetites must be cajoled upon occasion to keep up their interest in three meals a day. Remember this when you plan spring menus, for at this time of year spring fever is prevalent and appetities lag with the mood of listlessness and disinterest.

You will find the best cure for jaded spring appetites in the fresh early produce that appears in your markets. Pink-skinned rhubarb, tender green onions, piquant watercress and other succulent vegetables have a way akin to magic when it comes to snapping finicky appetites back to normal.

Prepare these foods with tender care and serve them with assurance that they will make appetites sparkle.

FRESH SPINACH CASSEROLE

½ cup milk
¼ lb. processed cheese
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
2 cups cooked, fresh spinach
1 cup corn flakes

Heat milk and cheese in top of double boiler, stirring until cheese is melted. Add seasonings. Drain spinach thoroughly; place in casserole. Cover with cheese mixture. Sprinkle with crusted corn flakes. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

One of the palate treats of spring and early summer is fresh green asparagus. It arrives green and succulent, with its own elusive fragrance. Its time is all too fleeting, so enjoy it we must while we may.

Served hot, dressed lavishly with golden melted butter is perhaps our first thought. But since such a thought is heresy today, let's try something more in keeping with the time. For instance, how about using some of those good drippings we've been saving to flavor our vegetables?

For all its flavor, this sauce is easy to make. Here is how it goes—but first, we start the asparagus.

COOKING ASPARAGUS

To cook whole, tie fresh asparagus loosely in a bunch, put into rapidly boiling, salted water and cook, uncovered, 10 to 20 minutes or until tender. Lift bunch from kettle, drain, serve hot stalks arranged parallel with sauce poured over them.

MUSHROOM-PIMIENTO SAUCE

1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup ½ cup milk
2 ounces pimiento cheese

Stir the milk into the condensed cream of mushroom soup and then add the pimiento cheese. Heat in a double boiler until the cheese melts and then pour over the asparagus. Makes 6 servings.

Succulent "baby" carrots are even sweeter, more delectable than the heartier ones that come later. And studies have shown that carrots fresh from the garden are not only rich in their standby vitamin A, but are endowed, too, with considerable vitamin C. So now, assured of vitamins A and C, just one more step in the right direction will put us really "up" on our ABC's. That right step should be in the direction of peanuts, one of the richest sources of the B vitamins. Carrots and peanuts combine wonderfully in salads and main dishes, making hard-to-beat vitamin packed treats. Try these and see.

CARROT AND PEANUT SALAD

1 cup grated raw carrot
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup salted peanuts, finely chopped

Mix ingredients together and moisten with salad dressing. Serve in a lettuce cup. Garnish with paprika.

CARROT STUFFED TOMATO SAUCE

Wash medium-sized, firm, ripe tomatoes; peel, if desired, and scoop out centers. Sprinkle insides with salt, invert and chill in refrigerater. Fill with carrot-olive stuffing, serve on crisp salad green with dressing, and garnish as desired.

To make stuffing, mix together grated raw carrot, minced, stuffed olives and tomato pulp, and cream cheese; moisten with cream and serve with salt and pepper.

Girl's in Love, But He Isn't

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am deeply in love with this boy and have been for almost two years now. He is always very nice to me, and whenever he sees me, he says "Hello" with the sweetest smile.

We have been to many parties and other affairs together, and once he told me he loved me, which made me very happy. Then this past summer I went away, and from then until now we have never been together and he has never taken me out on a date. I have been going out with other fellows and I could get very serious with some of them, but he just seems to be the only one for me. I know he has no particular girl, although he is very cute and many girls are crazy about him.

Do you think there ever could be a chance for me with him? I want to do all I can to get him.

PENNY.

My advice to you, Penny, is to let all these other girls fight over this boy wonder and put your mind on some of the other fellows you mention. If you feel that you could get "very serious" with some of them, I don't think you're as deeply in love with him as you're trying to persuade yourself you are. If there's ever going to be a chance for you with him, he'll let you know about it. Until then, I'd let him see you're not dependent on him for dates.

WHEN YOU MAKE FAUX PAS

When you make a "social error" . . . in speaking or in some other social procedure . . . acknowledge it and laugh at it. Then people will laugh with you, and you've been smart enough not to give them the opportunity to laugh at you. And this is often an excellent way to defeat self-consciousness.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

GIFT FOR HIM? It is the man who makes the "first move" in gift exchanging. It is permissible for the young woman to give gifts to a man after she has received presents from him, but most men are embarrassed to receive a gift from a girl for whom they have never even bought flowers or candy.

Furs in Storage Safe

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THIS IS about the last deadline for removing your winter furs from the deadly danger that lurks in wait for them in warm weather. Have you put your furs in storage yet? And if so have you put them in the right kind of storage?

There is only one place to store your furs where they will be safe, and that is in certified cold storage where the humidity and temperature controls are right to protect even the most delicate fur. Keeping your furs at home in moth-proof bags, etc., is not enough. They will dry out and this is very bad for fur. The leather that is the base of your fur is going to receive a mortal blow if you keep the fur where it is allowed to dry too much.

When you go to have your furs repaired, if they have not been properly stored it is going to be impossible to get a good job done.

Rita's Costumes Lavish in 'Gilda'

Gilding the "Gilda" . . . in other words, outfitting glamorous Rita Hayworth for her role in Columbia's new glamor picture opening today on Loew's twin screens . . . resulted in one of the most beautiful and lavish wardrobes worn by a star in recent years Glenn Ford is importantly featured in the film.

Designer Jean Louis, formerly associated with Hattie Carnegie, fashioned six evening gowns, four negligees, three suits and one daytime dress for Rita. In addition, she wears a chinchilla coat, an ermine wrap and beautiful jewels.

She is first glimpsed in a pink souffle, off-the-shoulder negligee. Although 28 yards of material were used, the dishabille is extremely revealing of Miss Hayworth's charms.

One of the film's most exciting sequences is performed by the star in a strapless evening dress of heavy black satin with a side drape skirt which has a huge bow on the left hip. Long black satin gloves are worn.

The samba is danced by Rita in a midriff dress of white heavy swan crepe, the skirt slit to the knees. The entire dress is embroidered in gold sequins and bugle beads.

Yet, despite this elaborate screen wardrobe, Miss Hayworth's new film is likely to earn her the title of the best "undressed" star in the movies.

"Have you a card for a blonde with a broken leg?—Which she'll have soon if she doesn't leave my boy friend alone!"

Mothers Flee Stunting Plane

Aerial acrobatics by a low-flying plane which skimmed over house-tops, trees and church spires caused a near-panic in the West Roxbury and Dedham sections today and resulted in more than 100 calls of protest to police headquarters.

The plane, described as a military type of craft, flew so low as it buzzed some homes that alarmed mothers took children from their baby carriages and fled for shelter of houses. Police and aeronautics authorities started search for the plane.

Prima's Trumpet at RKO

Louis Prima, the man of the history-making trumpet, brings his popular music makers to the RKO Boston today to play a return engagement. Remember his record-breaking run here last December.

On the stage with the Prima outfit will be the Pitchmen, three zaney musicians, and the tap-dancing Barretts. For screen fare there will be "Swing Parade of 1946," with Phil Regan, Gale Storm, Connee Boswell and the Will Osborne and Louis Jordan orchestras

The gravel-voiced Prima comes here direct from a successful New York engagement with the same crew of musicians recently rated with the nation's 10 best orchestras. They include Lillyann Carol, Jack Powers, Frank Federico and Mike Cotton.

Included in the "Swing Parade of 1946" score are such favorites as "Just a Little Fond Affection," "Caldonia," "Sunny Side of the Street" and "Stormy Weather."

"ADVENTURE" AT MODERN

The Clark Gable-Greer Garson co-starrer, "Adventure," is now showing at the Modern Theater. On the same bill is "Gay Blades," starring Jean Rogers and Allan Lane.

MAGNIFICENT ROGUE is Gary Cooper's Clint Maroon in Warners' film adaptation of Edna Ferber's "Saratoga Trunk," which moves to the Paramount and Fenway screens today from the Met.

"VIRGINIAN" ON 2 SCREENS

"The Virginian," Paramount's Technicolor version of Owen Wister's thriller of the West, brings Joel McCrea, Brian Donlevy, Sonny Tufts and Barbara Britton to the Washington St. Olympia and Scollay screens today.

Sox Make Concession To Nocturnal Baseball

By AUSTEN LAKE

FOR THE FIRST TIME since Thomas Austin Yawkey opened his pecuniary spigots and poured some $5,000,000 into a model ball yard and herds of expensive athletes, he has made a concession to his amateur conscience. Tom says 'twix now and next Spring he will rear batteries of flood lights and fix up a schedule of night games for his Red Sox.

Austen Lake

This must not be construed as dipping his knee to sordid commercialism or for better boxoffice. Because profit sheets and fiscal reports from his vast mines, mills and steamships interest him less than sitting under lee of his grandstand, gazing over his green acres and chin-chopping with his hired celebrities. Tom has a quaint strain of hero worship in his makeup, plus a hereditary stubborn streak.

Installing night lights for his favorite hobby may have cost Tom a severe wrench in the region of his idealism. For I recall the last time I asked him about it he snorted: "Night ball? Faugh! Baseball is a daytime game." And he said with vehemence there wouldn't be any nocturnal games on his property, "unless . . . unless the Boston people screamed for it." Personally, he had said, he hated the synthetic light like an island in a surrounding sea of darkness, the dark chill, the treacherous shadows and the halfseen crowds.

I THINK I CAN TELL YOU the genesis of his hatred for night games. It was in Cleveland before the war, a sticky, humid night in the Municipal Stadium when Yawkey sat on the lower levels squinting into the glare of the overhead lights and trying to follow the flight of the ball under the shadow of his program.

A cloud of Canadian flies had swept over the field, almost fogging the illumination and adhering to perspiring faces until suddenly the rains came and a chill lake-wind swept the choking humidity away. And the Sox were playing a heartbreak game in which their lead had been swept away in the ninth inning and tubby Jack Wilson's hard-ball was paddled to the outer limits of the gloom.

So Tom said later he couldn't see a thing but a series of luminous hard-boiled eggs floating before his vision. He looked aloft into the lights and the images of the big bulbs had lingered on his retina for long minutes. So he came away hating it. And I suspect he hates it now!

Yet behind Yawkey's boyish weakness for baseball, he is a solid business man who runs his investments profitably so that I fear he has improved his hereditary millions instead of sv eating it down. Behind his round faced jollity which deceives strangers into thinking he is laughing his way through life there is a speculative smoulder in his eye and a glint of stubborn stuff underneath. And in late years he has grown increasingly sensitive to the popular suspicion he was just a happy spendthrift who was kissing his millions away for the sake of watching the banknotes flutter. So he made it plain that he was through dumping large sums into ready made player stocks. And a year ago he refused to sell his Fenway property and buy that of the late Jake Ruppert for $2,500,000; or half of what he had sunk in Boston. "I don't expect to make any money out of baseball," he said, "but I'm not going to lose any either."

Trends have changed and Tom has altered his attitude if not his opinion since the day he swept his arms around the green painted slopes of his park and told me, "There's 35,000 seats. All we got to do to fill 'em is keep winning some games. Then the people will find time to come, night or day."

When a Ball Game Starts

THAT PROPHECY CAME TRUE—this Spring. For the first time in his 14 years the Sox are a habitual winner with imaginative appeal to the hordes of people who storm the turnstiles. Tom would fill a double decked park these days. And yet this is the time when he recognizes night baseball as a popular need, while in the inner recesses of his soul he probably still says "hooie."

For a ball game, in Tom's eye, does not start at the moment the umpires stroll onto the field and bid the game begin. The game starts in mid morning when Yawkey taxies to the park, goes prowling around the underground tunnels, snoops around the locker room, banters with the athletes, sits in the bleachers and soaks up the sun, meets stray members of the press or dines with the visiting manager.

Well, $5,000,000 can buy a lot of fun! Tom might have bought a string of race horses and a breeding farm in the Blue Grass as Alfred Gwynn Vanderbilt did. He might have built expensive racing yachts as Mike Vanderbilt did and sail before Newport's nobility. But baseball is Yawkey's idea of real fun and he has invested his money unstintingly and shared his woes and pleasures with the Boston people. Which, against his scruples, is why he will invite an illumination company to survey his ground and draft water-color paintings of great steel towers with large aerial trays of moonlight—while still grunting "N'agh."

The writer predicts that within a few years a quarter to a third of major league games will be played under incandescent bulbs and that club prejudice against them will dwindle to a vanishing point. Night lights have never kept the citizens away from the Bruins' hockey games, or the indoor prize fights, or Wonderland's pooch saucer. It's only a 3c idea, but Harvard football could do itself some good by erecting bull beacons of synthetic daylight atop its concrete horseshoe. What with taxes, salary commitments and upkeep I hope Harvard does not think me presumptuous in hinting that it could use some more football income.

Sox Can't Have New Press Box

Apparently, the CPA doesn't feel that the Red Sox will win the American League Pennant this season!

Regional Director William P. Homans, back in Boston after a two-day conference in Washington, D. C., reported that the request of the Red Sox to construct an addition to the press box to accommodate 240 sports writers had been passed to officials there.

On April 11, Homans had automatically turned down the appeal.

The addition was to cost $45,000 and it was to be used specifically for the All Star game at Fenway Park, July 9.

Red Sox Trade in Winds Despite Victory Streak

By FRED HOEY

As the Red Sox square away in their quest for their 14th straight victory with Jim Bagby on the mound against Ed Lopat, White Sox southpaw, it is increasingly apparent that the strength of the American League for the present is along the Eastern seaboard. The White Sox, yesterday, completed the round of visitations of the four Western clubs. Not a club in the Western wheel, on the strength of their games at Fenway Park have displayed enough power to stop the Red Sox or the Yankees. And they are having a tough time with Washington. Three or four weeks may make a vital difference in the relative ability of East vs. West but as of the today, the East has the edge.

That 14 to 10 merry-go-round yesterday, which enabled the Red Sox to run their string of wins to 13, was most pleasing to the fans who saw the national pastime at its worst. But the impending news from Red Sox front office is of more importance than a mere ball game which has now reached that stage of routine effort.

The deal may be a purchase or a trade, and is the importation of some outstanding ball player to be added to the Sox forces. Your only guess is that he is a third baseman. Otherwise the Sox are strongly fortified. The hot corner is their weak spot. Maybe the new player is slated for that spot. Within the next few days, the answer to this $64 question will be forthcoming.

In that terrible drab affair of yesterday when the Sox turned back the White Sox 14 to 10, that Mighty Mite, Johnny Pesky, sent the scribes into the Red Book of baseball records when he scored six runs after making three singles, a double and two walks.

When he scored his sixth run in the eighth inning on Mickey Harris' single, Pesky established a new record. The modern record of five runs was shared by Jimmy Foxx and Lou Gehrig.

As if research of this record-breaking run scoring wasn't enough, Pesky, along with his pal Ted Williams, sent the boys into the percentage books after the vicious attack of this pair yesterday.

Pesky's four hits with a walk in five times up sent his batting soaring to .429 to lead both leagues in hitting. Tall Ted, with two singles, two walks, a ground out, and strikeout, picked up three points to reach the .427 stratosphere.

It was a game of games if you like them that way. Only the keen interest in the offensive of Williams and Pesky really kept the 12,000 fans happy. In addition to allowing 17 hits, the Chicago pitchers walked nine men.

But the pay-off came on Harris' effort. The southpaw entered the game with a 4-0 record and he was lucky his mates collected 17 hits and all those walks. Mickey was terribly ineffective. Only the early nine-run lead the Red Sox had amassed kept him in the game.

Those White Sox really were teeing off on Harris. It got so bad in the ninth inning with Boston leading by seven runs, that Joe Cronin had to yank the southpaw and call in Dave Ferriss to get the final man out.

The White Sox paraded four pitchers to the mound — Joe Haynes, Orville Grove, Frank Papish and Earl Caldwell. They all looked terrible.

The White Sox looked very tough in the field early in the game. They must have scattered some error germs around for it was not long before the Red Sox were coming up with their share of boots.

The Red Sox wound up with Chicago in a single this afternoon and then hit a 7 o'clock train for New York where they will get a hotel rest before opening with the Yanks in the Stadium there tomorrow.

Jim Bagby's appearance on the mound today will bring back a lot of those left-handed hitting White Sox . . . Rudy York comes up with some fancy dan stuff with that glove of his backhanding sizzling grounders . . . Rudy holds the record for 3-6-3 plays, first baseman to short, covering second, back to first with six . . . When Ted Williams was walked by Earl Caldwell in the eighth, his second of the game, it marked the 23d time "The Splinter" had been passed.

The boys watched the score board as Detroit took the 1-to 0 game from Washington. It proved that Hal Newhouser's arm is O. K. . . . Jimmy Foxx, radiocaster, appears to know the new big name player coming to the Red Sox.

Joe Cronin dropped three players yesterday. Mel Deutsch and Jim Wilson, pitchers, and Andy Gilbert, infielder, have been sent to Louisville on option.

Southpaws on Hill In B's-Cubs' Battle

CHICAGO, May 9—It was a southpaw duel as the Braves and Cubs squared off in the second game of their series here, Jimmy Wallace for the Billy Southworth and Johnny Schmitz for Charley Grimm.

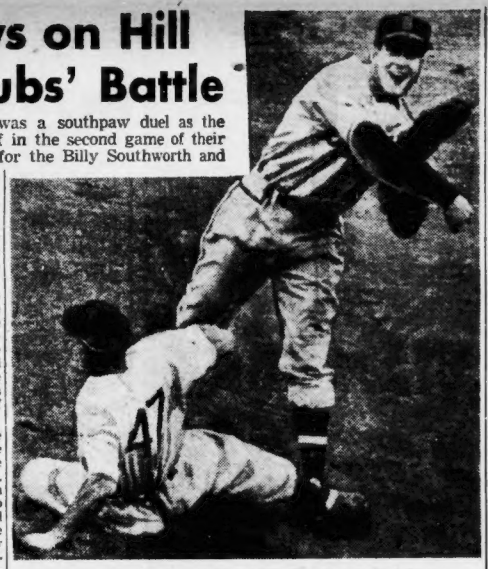
Wallace's record is clean today, no wins nor losses, having been used only in relief roles after the games have been lost. Schmitz has won his spurs this year with two wins while bowing once.

The Chicago opener was the fourth loss in five games for the Tribe. Another big inning, this time against Al Javery, was the downfall of the Braves. Six runs were scored against them in the third inning which they never were able to overcome. The game ended with the Braves on the short end of 10-5.

It was a local boy, Cambridge Eddie Waitkus, who proved the most difficult Cub to tame. He got thre- hits and scored two runs.

Southworth cut the strings on two more pitchers, sending Bob Williams, former Amherst and Quonset player, to Seattle of the Coast League, and releasing Larry Powell outright . . . both were left-handers . . . this was Powell's second release within the past 10 days, the Red Sox having cast him adrift earlier . . . Powell, who failed to show sufficient speed during batting practice, left immediately for his home in Frisco . . . he hopes to catch on with one of the Coast teams.

Bama Rowell seems to have found the eye that was the bane of all "grapefruit league" pitchers. He laced out three hits against the Cubs to stand out in the Braves' offense . . . Nanny Fernandez is getting another shot at shortstopping with Whitey Wietelmann on the bench . . . Nanny has the batting power to make good.



AROUND THE HORN—"Peanuts" Lavery, Cubs' third baseman, is forced at second on a play from "Skippy" Roberge to Connie Ryan, who is relaying throw to first in time for a double-play in first inning of the Cubs' opener in Chicago. Braves lost, 10-5. INP Soundphoto

B's to Use Satin Uniforms In First Night Game Here

The Braves are going all out to make the first major league night baseball game in New England a gala affair.

General Manager John Quinn announced a one-and-one-half hour show would precede Saturday night's game with the New York Giants.

The show will start at seven o'clock with a concert by a 75-piece band. Also on the program is a concert by Billy Payne, clowning of Al Schact, and a 20-minute fireworks display.

The Braves have been outfitted with new satin uniforms for the occasion. It is believed the satin uniforms will show up better under the lights than the regular flannel outfits.

Among prominent guests at the game will be Mrs. Albert Chandler, wife of the baseball commissioner, and President Horace Stoneham of the New York Giants.

Browns Ask Chandler To Cancel Yanks' Deal

ST. LOUIS, May 9 (INS)—The St. Louis Browns filed a request with Commr. Chandler asking for annulment of the transaction whereby they sent outfielder Milt Byrnes and an estimated $7500 in cash to the Yankees in exchange for catcher Ken Sears.

Bill De Witt, vice-president of the Browns, said Sears reported a month ago with a sore arm and informed Manager Luke Sewell that he could not play regularly

Yankees Keep Pace Back of Torrid Sox

(AP)—The New York Yankees remained three and a half lengths behind the Red Sox when they triumphed over the St. Louis Browns 5-1. Spud Chandler joined Harris as the majors' only five game winners by holding the Sewellmen to three hits, two of which came in the ninth when the Browns scored their one run. A three-run homer by Rizzuto was the big blow off lefthander Sam Zoldak.

Detroit's Hal Newhouser and Cleveland's Bobby Feller, who with Chandler and Boston's Tex Hughson, are expected to fight it out for the league's pitching leadership, each hurled a masterful game with Newhouser blanking the Washington Senators, 1-0, and Feller whipping the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-2.

Newhouser, sidelined for a week with bone chips in the elbow of his pitching arm, signified his return to normalcy by holding the Nats to two hits in registering his second shutout. A triple play by the Tigers in the fifth inning helped Newhouser. With men on first and second, Eddie Mayo caught a liner deflected off Newhouser's bare hand, touched second and threw to first to complete the triple killing.

Feller rebounded from his shellacking by the Red Sox last week, holding the A's to six hits and fanning 11 to raise his season's total of strikeouts to 59.

Don Padgett's pinch-hit home run in the 10th inning gave the Brooklyn Dodgers an 8-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds and kept the Brooks a half game behind the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals. A base-clearing double by Bill Herman highlighted a four-run inning Dodger rally which tied the game and forced it into overtime.

With Dave Koslo besting Pittsburgh's Fritz Ostermueller in an all-lefty pitching duel, the New York Giants advanced into a fifth place tie with the Pirates by shading the Bucs, 1-0. With the score 0-0 going into the eighth, Buddy Blattner opened the Giants' half with a triple and scored the lone run of the game when Buddy Kerr lofted a long fly.

The St. Louis Cardinals protected their first place lead with a 5-3 triumph over Philadelphia's Phils in a night contest.

Expect 150,000 To See Sox in N.Y.

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP)—From the length of the line that has extended around the block from the Yankees' downtown ticket office for several days, New York fans evidently expect the American League pennant to be decided this week-end at the stadium.

The advance sale for the three-game blowoff between the Yanks and those ball-pounding Red Sox from Boston has been little short of phenomenal, considering that the season still is in its infancy. It will surprise no one if the crowds tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday total 150,000.

Th e series is a natural if there ever was one. While it will not settle the American League championship, it could go a long way toward telling whether manager Joe Cronin's high fliers really have the hitting, the fielding and the pitching needed to overcome the Yankees at last.

Meeting head-on for the first time since they powered their way out in front of the field and made it clear they were going to settle the thing between them, both clubs are certain to put forth the last ounce of effort and to use their top pitchers in hopes of dealing a stunning blow.

Allen Gettel, Floyd Bevens and Spud Chandler are expected to be manager Joe McCarthy's hill nominees, as all three have been pitching spectacular ball. Cronin figures to counter with Mickey Harris, Joe Dobson and Tex Hughson.

Chandler, working with only three days' rest instead of his customary four, might face Hughson in Sunday's battle.

Luke Sewell, whose St. Louis Browns just absorbed a three-game beating from the Sox, came away from Boston mightily impressed with the raw power of Cronin's sluggers, but not sufficiently so to begin conceding them the flag.

Harvard Teams Face Busy Week On Three Fronts

Three Harvard major sports teams will be in action this week, with all of their activity taking place on foreign fields.

The track team, undefeated in three meets this spring, including Saturday's convincing victory over Yale, travels to Hanover, N. H., for a quadrangular meet with Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, and Yale.

The baseball nine, fresh from its 6-0 win over BU Saturday, will face Holy Cross in Worcester on Saturday.

The varsity and junior varsity crews go to Annapolis on Saturday for a nine-college regatta among Harvard, Cornell, Columbia, Navy, M. I. T., Princeton, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, and Rutgers.

The baseball team sports a two-and-four record, having beaten Tufts and BU, and having lost to Kings Point, Connecticut, Quonset Naval, and Boston College. The track team has beaten Tufts and Connecticut, and then Holy Cross and Rhode Island State in three-cornered meets, besides having taken Yale. The varsity crew, in its only race, finished second to Cornell on the Charles Saturday, with the jayvees finishing second to Princeton.

Despite the failure of his varsity eight to win Saturday, Coach Tom Bolles expressed himself as pleased with its showing. "That is the best we have done all season," he said, "and as long as the boys are improving, I'm satisfied."

Harvard was hurt by the inability of its regular stroke, Thorvald Ross, to row, although Lou Cox did an excellent job filling in for him. Ross, who was ill with an attack of the measles, was running a temperature of 102, and Bolles has expressed doubt that he will be ready for this week's regatta at Navy.

Quits Santa Clara To Coach Pro Football

SANTA CLARA, Cal., May 9 (AP)—Joe Kuharich, Santa Clara University line coach, has resigned, and it was reported he would join the professional Pittsburgh football Steelers in the same capacity.

Kuharich, whose resignation followed by a day that of head football coach, Larry "Moon" Mullins, like Mullins said the housing shortage prompted his action.

Suffolk Stakes Draw 516

Suffolk Downs' 10 stakes to be run during its summer meeting May 27 through July 6, have drawn a total of 516 nominations from the leading stables of the country.

William G. Helis and Mrs. Elizabeth Graham were the heaviest nominators. Mr. Helis named horses for every one of the 19 stakes, 35 in all, and the check for his nomination fees totalled $2300. Mrs. Elizabeth Granam named 26 for eight Suffolk stakes and her Maine Chance Farm's check was for $1825.

The Massachusetts Handicap to be run on July 4 for a purse of $50,000 added, has drawn a total of 66 nominations, and, with 12 starters, would have a gross value of $68,600.

The first horse named for the Massachusetts was Mrs. E. Muirenan's First Fiddle, winner of this stake in 1944 and also in 1945.

The Kentucky Derby winner, Assault, has been named by King Ranch as has Stymie by Mrs. E. D. Jacobs; Armed by Calumet Farm; Olympic-Zenith, Adonis, Rick's Raft, Pericles, Rounders and Pindus by William Helis; Pavot by Walter M. Jeffords, Concordian by B. A. Murphy; Coincidence and Dockstader by Greentree Stable; Hippodrome and Isology by Belair Stud; Busy El Arab by C. V. Whitney; Detection by Alfred G. Vanderbilt; and Lord Boswell, Knockdown, Colony Boy and Perfect Bahram by Maine Chance Farm.

Seven of the starters in the Kentucky Derby, headed by Maine Chance Farm's Lord Boswell, Knockdown and Perfect Bahram are among the 54 named for the Yankee Handicap, $25,000 added on June 8.

The Suffolk Downs 2-year-old stakes drew a total of 220 nominations headed by 93 for the Mayflower Stakes, $25,000 added, to be run July 6.

Blackwood Has Speed, Punch for LaMotta Go

By JACK CONWAY

IT IS LIKELY that Joe Blackwood, 18-year-old ring sensation from Paterson, N. J., will be an even money choice for his 10-round bout with Joey LaMotta which will top a Goodwin A. C. card at the Garden tomorrow night. When Blackwood recently met LaMotta here, Jake was a 10 to 6 favorite and was fortunate that the tussle was limited to 10 rounds. LaMotta was so weary at the final gong he could barely hold his hands up.

Joey LaMotta

LaMotta justified the betting odds in the early rounds, then tired badly and was unable to keep up with the pace set by the youthful Blackwood in the closing sessions. In addition to being fast and a skillful boxer, Blackwood is also a hard, sharp hitter.

LaMotta relies upon aggressiveness and a steady barrage of blows to win. He is not a terrific hitter like Brother Jake, but he beats down most of his opponents by the persistence of his attack.

If he wins, Blackwood wishes to meet Jake LaMotta in an outdoor show at Fenway Park. The Goodwin Club is prepared to stage three or four outdoor boxing carnivals which will feature the LaMotta brothers, Al (Red) Priest, Joe Blackwood, Coley Welch and other active boxers.

Larry Pacino of Roxbury also aspires to get into the outdoor boxing program. He will oppose Buddy Rose of Augusta, Ga., in another 10-round bout tomororw night.

Harry Hurst, Canadian welterweight who was formerly a flier in the AEF, will take on Chico Barrado of Mexico City in a third 10, while the fourth 10 will bring together Joe Reddick of Paterson, N. J., and Johnny Walker of Philadelphia.

2 Million From Helis

THE BREAKDOWN of the $3,600,000 bid that won control of Suffolk Downs shows that William Helis, New Orleans sportsman, contributed $2,000,000, broker Warner $1,000,000 and the Pappas brothers, John and Thomas, $600,000. With the Helis wealth back of them the Pappas brothers were not boasting when they said they would have paid whatever was necessary to secure the majority stock in the track formerly held by the Aldred Investment Trust.

The carefree tax experts figure out that the Suffolk Downs deal netted Aldred Investment Trust a total profit of $2,500,000 between capital appreciation and dividend. The stock profit was $1,800,000 while there was a profit of $700,000 on dividends. Gordon B. Hanlon, former president of the Aldred Investment Trust who made the big race track commitment, once told this writer that the setup of Aldred Investment Trust enabled it to absorb the dividends from the racing investment without being obliged to pay taxes on them.

At the time Hanlon acquired Suffolk Downs he bid $1,000,000 for Rockingham Park and $500,000 for Raynham Park. Under present values, Rockingham Park is worth $3,000,000 and Raynham between $750,000 and $1,000,000. Hanlon knew his race track values.

Shehan Placing Judge

TOM SHEHAN of Danvers, recently discharged from the Army where he served on "Yank" Army magazine, with the rank of sergeant, has been named a placing judge at Suffolk Downs.

Tom will also return to Rockingham Park this seasor as a steward. . . . Dan Carroll, back in town after spending the Winter and early Spring in Florida, says George Martin of the South End displayed much ring class and boxing power as he defeated Bob Britton, son of the famous Jack, at Miami, Fla. . . . Martin will soon be active in local rings and will be prepared to defend his New England welterweight championship.

Steve Casey will demand another title bout with Frank Sexton—if he wins from Olaf Olsen in a finish mat bout at the Arena tonight under the direction of Paul Bowser.

Nick Lutze, former heavyweight wrestler who is conducting a garage at Beverly Hills, Cal., called this writer on the long distance telephone and requested that we forward his World Series application for two tickets to Eddie Collins of the Sox.

"I have been planning to make a visit to Boston as soon as the Sox won a pennant," said Nick . . . "The club is sure hot, and it looks as if Joe Cronin has finally hit the jackpot."

'Crusher' Tangles With Olaf Olsen

Former world's heavyweight champion, Steve "Crusher" Casey of County Kerry, Ireland, an ex-GI, will be back at the Boston Arena tonight, facing the elongated Olaf Olsen, Milwaukee, in the main bout of Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling program.

Casey, in his most recent appearance, here, held titlist Frank Sexton to a draw as he attempted to regain the mat crown.

Watch Demaret, Little With Wood

By BYRON NELSON

In the previous installment, I pointed out that the No. 3 and No. 4 woods were the two most useful clubs to the average golfer. I also warned against the use of the brassie when conditions called for the No. 3 and No. 4 wood, and pointed out that you could learn a great deal about playing those clubs by watching Lawson Little and Jimmy Demaret.

The next time you go to one of our tournaments make a point of paying particular attention to Little and Demaret when they play those clubs. You will notice that they, and the other professionals who play those clubs well, swing their clubs slowly and deliberately on the backswing. In addition, they come almost to the point of a hesitation stop at the top of their backswing.

This is something you should try for because if you swing slowly, it is easier to swing smoothly. There should be no jerk in any golf swing. That hesitation at the top of the swing I speak of indicates a certain rhythm which all of the good players have and is something the ordinary player should aim for.

In order to make full use of the fairway woods, the No. 2, No. 3 and No. 4 woods, you should play the ball a little more toward the center of your stance than you do when using your driver. When you use the fairway woods the ball is not teed up. You must hit the ball when the club is at the lowest point of the arc just as it is starting on the upswing. And the lowest point of the arc is always in the center of the stance.

When the ball has a bad lie you should play it even more towards the center of the stance because you should hit it almost as you would an iron shot. When trying to hit such shots correctly remember that it is necessary to hit some turf because it is impossible to pick the ball up clean out of a bad lie with any club, wood or iron.

With the ball in a bad lie I also think it is a good idea for you to stand a little closer to it and swing the clubhead a little more upright.

On normal shots the club should sweep along the ground a little distance behind the ball. This is done by shifting the weight from the left to the right foot at the start of the backswing.

Cardinals Play Artesani Club

Having made the most auspicious debut of any new club in the Park League through two successive wins over the Dick Casey Club, the Dorchester Cardinals take their bats to Smith Field in Allston tonight to face the Artesani Club which will have big Jack Smith, formerly of the airborne infantry, on the mound.

In an attempt to break into the win column, which used to be a habit with the Dick Casey Club, Dick has assigned Johnny Wedemeyer, portside fireballer, the hurling duties against the fast Tom Owens Club at Dorchester Town Field. The Owens opened against the McCarthy Club and shut them out, 10-0, with Frank Foley, one time Harvard hurler, on the hill.

Games tonight:

St. Thomas at Roslindale Royals, Healy Field.
Quality Baking at West Roxbury, Billings Field.
Linehan Club at Glynn Club, Eustis Street Park.
Lane Club at Veterans, Cleveland Circle.
Dorchester Cardinals at Artesani Club, Smith Field.
Tom Owens Club at Dick Casey Club, Dorchester Town Field.
McDonough Club at McCarthy Club, C. J. Lee Park.

Compromise Seen On Wildlife Refuge

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

The Parker River Wildlife refuge controversy has raged in rod and gun circles, sportsman's clubs, and other realms for quite some time, and here is news of a compromise proposal that may please almost everyone concerned.

The area now suggested would include only the sand dunes, tidal marshes, and flats on Plum Island, and adjacent flats and marshes on the west shore of Plum Island Sound, from Nelson Island to Pine Island Creek—a reduction from 12,000 to 6000 acres. This would thus eliminate any possible conflict with the farmers in the uplands.

The objection of the clam interests to placing tidal flats under federal supervision is removed through the agreement of the Fish and Wildlife Service to pass a law enabling the towns of Ipswich, Rowley and Newbury to issue permits and manage the flats as in the past . . . The Service also agreed to institute preventive measures to drive ducks from the flats, if a concentration of waterfowl was reported destroying seed clams.

William P. Wharton, chairman of the Mass. Conservation Council, stated that this compromise proposal met with his complete approval and believes that sportsmen of the State will back the establishing of the refuge. He added that Gov. Tobin's decision in this matter would probably decide the issue.

ANGLING ANGLES: Rumors of big striped bass continue—but we want to see them . . . Tallest tale told yet described "a 48-pound striper, taken from the Cape Cod Canal yesterday" . . . If this is true, we'll eat it . . . However, the small ones are swarming up the Weweantic, and this week-end may prove productive.

Recently returned from a fishing trip at the Renous river, New Brunswick, are Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Hallowell, of Boston, who landed and released 75 salmon, using barbless hooks, during 3½ days. 'Twas so cold and rainy most of the time that the couple were forced to free their lines from the guides, since they were freezing to the rods.

Ex-BC Player Named Tufts Line Coach

Andrew F. Lentine, a Boston College lineman under Gil Dobie, has been named line coach by Fred (Fish) Ellis, Tufts' new head coach.

Lentine had been line coach at Tufts the past three seasons as a Navy chief specialist. Previously, he coached at Winchester High, Bates College and Springfield College.

Harris, Callura Try Comebacks

Jackie Harris, Malden, and Jack Callura, Hamilton, Ontario, both will be inaugurating comebacks when they collide in one of the four 10-round bouts on a Callahan A. C. boxing program next Monday night at Mechanics Building.

Callura, gone two years with the U. S. armed forces, is a former featherweight champion of the world. Harris himself is a war veteran of some three-year service who served in North Africa, Italy and the CBI theaters.

Callura returns hoping to regain the 126-pound world title; Harris is back attempting to redeem himself after losing to Spider Armstrong. Harris was stopped by Armstrong because of cuts about both eyes but he was fresh and full of fight at the time the referee halted the affair.

Other 10-rounders will be Mad Anthony Jones, Boston, vs. Len Wadsworth, Winnipeg, who beat Fitzie Fitzpatrick, drew with Jose Basora and lost a split verdict to Coley Welch in recent fights; Joe Celetti, Providence, vs. Honey Mellody, nee Joey Farrante, Charlestown, out of the Navy and making a new start; and Benny Delgaldo, Providence stylist who resembles Sugar Robinson, vs. Floriant Desmaris, Manchester, N. H. in a return bout the fans have been awaiting.

Set Big Guns—Flushed with their 13th straight victory, Red Sox big gunners Rudy York, Ted Williams, Bobby Doerr and Dom DiMaggio look over the diamond in anticipation of increasing the wins to 14 today at the expense of the Chisox. Record Breaker

The sizzling bat of Johnny Pesky, Red Sox' shortstop, which yesterday broke the American League scoring record with six runs crossing the plate, will be kept at its fever heat today as the young veteran attempts to hold his batting average of .429, highest in the league. The Lynn star gets in a little batting practice for today's game.

Visits Pope Pius—Little Gianfranco Gioliano Cabbia, the Italian blind boy who was adopted by the U. S. 88th Division and taken to Baltimore for an eye operation that was partly successful, waits with his guardian, PFC Howard Gorgas (right), and a Swiss guard, at the Vatican entrance for an audience with Pope Pius. He will return to this country soon for another operation.

Set to Pitch—A hearty meal is devoured by Jim Bagby, ace Sox hurler, at his Back Bay hotel, before reporting at Fenway Park today to make a bid for his second win of the season, and the Red Sox' 14th straight win. He faces Al Lopat, Chicago's pitching selection.
